MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACE,

Having done me the honour to suggest that I should edit and re-print the 'Pisgah-Sight of Palestine:' and which only the pressure of other engagements compelled me to deny myself of,—I cannot hesitate in regarding you as a lover of THOMAS FULLER. I ask your kind acceptance, therefore, of the dedication of this little volume of his Poems and Verse-Translations.

With much regard and gratitude for theological and spiritual benefit received from your Works,

I am,

Very Faithfully your Grace's

Obliged,

ALEXANDER B. GROSART.

INTRODUCTION.

---

SUSPECT that the first impression of those who hear of the present little volume or who take it up, will be that it is some such literary quiz as Sir WALTER SCOTT half-thought of perpetrating in relation to DAVID HUME. A short quotation from his genial letter will explain:—‘We visited Corby Castle on our return to Scotland,’ he writes to Morritt, ‘which remains in point of situation as beautiful as when its walks were celebrated by David Hume, in the only rhymes he was ever know to be guilty of. Here they are, from a pane of glass in an inn at Carlisle—

Here chickens in eggs for breakfast sprawl,
Here godless boys God’s glories squall,
Here Scotchmen’s heads do guard the wall,
But Corby’s walks atone for all.’

Then playfully, ‘Would it not be a good quiz to advertise the Poetical Works of David Hume, with notes, critical, historical, and so forth—with an historical inquiry into the use of eggs for breakfast, a physical discussion on the causes of their being addled, a history of the English Church music and of the choir of Carlisle in particular; a full account of the affair of 1745, with the trials, last speeches and so forth, of the poor *plaid*s who were strapped up at Carlisle; and lastly, a full and particular description of Corby, with the genealogy of every family who ever possessed it? I think even without more than the usual waste of margin, the Poems of David would make a decent twelve shilling touch. I shall think about it when I have exhausted mine own century of inventions.<sup>1</sup> Even students of FULLER I find have never so much as seen his longest 'Divine Poem,' are unfamiliar with his 'Panegyrick,' and have overlooked his lesser things. So that unless I much mistake this volume of 'Poems and Translations' bearing his sunny name will come as a surprise—a pleasant surprise surely—to not a few of his lovers. But they will not be 'bamboozled' (if the slang word be allowable) with any such 'Notes' and 'Inquiries' as loveable SIR WALTER jocosely designed for HUME's quatrain.

I had resolved to edit and print a limited private edition of 'David's Hainous Sinne, Heartie Repentance, Heavie Punishment,' and the 'Pane-gyrick,' as on talking with fellow-reverers of FULLER, I discovered that not one in a score had once met with them, while all were wishful to have them if only they might be purchased under Bibliomania-price. My own copy of the former had cost me £5, 5s., and the latter £2, 2s.;<sup>1</sup> and inquiry soon satisfied that in the book-market they were deemed cheap at these (comparatively) high prices, e.g. in the British Museum copy which is bound in saffron morocco, but cropped mended and soiled, there is a memorandum that it had sold for £17 at Brand's Sale (whose book-plate is on it); and for the 'Panegyrick'—which is in virgin state, uncut edges—I was soon offered £3, 3s. So that—independent of intrinsic worth and interest—if these could be faithfully and worthily reproduced for fewer pence than the pounds they readily fetch in the original editions, I thought a little literary service should be rendered thereby. But on proceeding to carry this out it soon appeared that more was demanded.

<sup>1</sup> A copy of David's Hainous Sinne, etc., was recently on sale by Mr Joseph Lilly (a bookseller of the fine old stamp), Covent Garden, London, thus described, 'a Poem, small octavo, calf extra, gilt edges, the last leaf containing the concluding (only) verses reprinted, £5, 5s.' I believe it was snapped up instantly. Bindley's copy brought £5, 15s. 6d. Hibbert's, which was the same copy, £6, 6s.

For on turning to my marked copies of the 'Worthies,' 'Church-History,' 'Pisgah-Sight:' in short to Fuller's complete Works, I came on many 'Verses'—mainly translations from the Latin—having, occasionally at least, the salt of wit, the dainty fancies, the inimitable word-play and alliteration, the brilliant conceits—as of ancient torcs of gold—the kindly humour, the soft delicate pitifulness, of this most loveable of England's Worthies. [I don't—as usual—call him 'dear old Fuller:' for alas! he died aged only 53]. All this being so, I concluded to give the whole of his Poems and Verse-Translations. Still further: My attention having been obligingly called by Mr W. C. Hazlitt to his communication to Notes and Queries (3d Series vii. pp. 352, 353), concerning a volume formerly belonging to him, wherein were written in a contemporary hand a large number of Epigrams by 'Mr Tho. Fuller,' inquiries were set on foot to discover its present possessor. By the kind zeal of Mr F. S. Ellis, Bookseller, 33 King Street, Covent Garden, London, I speedily recovered the precious little book, and obtained unreserved permission to use whatever I might wish in it. The Epigrams authenticate themselves: many being truly Fullerian. I congratulate myself on my rare good fortune in having it in my power to add this treasure-trove to my collection. I beg to return right hearty thanks to its owner (H. H. Gibbs Esq., London), for his ready liberality that enables me to do this.

Thus the present volume—as its title-page bears—not only furnishes Fuller's larger Poems, but 'for the first time' brings together the minor 'Verses' scattered up and down his numerous prose writings, and no fewer than fifty-nine hitherto unpublished Epigrams by him.

Regarding 'the Poems and Translations' intrinsically, I prefix—in its place—the Criticism of his longest poem by OLDYS. But he has missed its biographic interest and its most characteristic turns and touches. Biographically it is to be remembered that as 'David's Hainous Sinne,' etc. was published in 1631 it was probably composed when he was little out of his 'teens.'—So that his first known production confirms Charles Lamb's penetrative insight in his winsome words on his genius: 'The writings of Fuller are usually designated by the title of quaint and with sufficient reason: for such was his natural bias to conceits, that I doubt not, upon most occasions, it would have been going out of his way to have expressed himself out of them.' In his earliest as in his last book is the same 'Roman hand,' the same inevitableness, naturalness and spontaneity of 'quaint' thought and wording. I cull a few examples of word-play from 'David's Hainous Sinne : ' and sure I am that no one familiar with FULLER will fail to detect in them the very essentia of his after-style. Thus he puts poor Uriah's eager obedience in carrying the king's false and fatal 'Letter,'—

On his journey past
With speed, who needed not to make such hast
Whose death had he gone slow did come too fast.

[I. st. 33.]

Again, wisely as well as wittily :

Where
Kings bid and God forbids, we must forbear

[Ibid. st. 44.]

And of Uriah finely—

Thus of his friends betray'd by subtile traine :
Assaulted of his foes with might and maine
He lost his life, not conquer'd but slain

[Ibid. st. 46.]

So of the 'infant newly borne, now neare to dye' very tenderly—

See with what silent signes and sighes full faine
Poore heart it would expresse where lies the paine
Complaining that it knowes not to complaine

[III. st. 3.]

Again—

His tongue did never lye that cannot speke.

[Ibid. st. 5.]

Then follows this dainty metaphor—

As when a tender rose begins to blow
 Yet scarce unswaddled is, some wanton maide
 Pleas'd with the smell, allured with the show
 Will not reprove it till it hath display'd
     The folded leaves: but to her brest applies
     Th' abortive budd, where coffinèd it lyes
Losing the blushing dye before it dies. [Ibid. st. 7.]

Here is a genuinely FULLERIAN and later
 GEORGE CRABBE-ian alliteration—on 'the poor larke imprison'd in the cage of a kite's claws' vainly pleading for escape

On her that pray'd so long, doth prey at last.
[Ibid. st. 14.]<sup>1</sup>

Again: of Absalom's mock-condescension—

He steales their hearts by taking of their hands.
[Ibid. st. 25.]

Incisively too

A saint dissembled is a double devile. [Ibid. st. 28.]
 Asse, that for wit his rider did exceed. [Ibid. st. 34.]

Then, more fully and with still more characteristic touches:

<sup>1</sup> We have many like lines e.g. of the 'asse' whereon
 Absalom rode, set free

Now rid of him that rid on her before. [III. st. 45.]

So—

A fruitfull wilderness of fruitlesse weeds. [Ibid. st. 48.]

Seldome things done speedily doe speed. [Ibid. st. 53.]

Losing their gettings, gaining what they lost.

[Ibid. st. 68.]

A chayne of hемpe hē to his necke made fast
 By tying of which knot he did untye
 The knot of soule and body, and at last Stopping the passage of his breath, thereby
     A passage for his soule wide opened hee :
     Thus traytors rather than they should goe free
     Themselves the hangman of themselves will bee.

[Ibid. st. 37.]

Again :

My sonne! whose body had of grace the fill
 My sonne! whose soule was so devoid of grace.

[Ibid. st. 50.]

Further: This 'Divine poem' is of biographic interest and value in that it reveals FULLER'S Calvinism at the time (at least)—on two leading 'doctrines' e.g. Predestination or Election.

. . Soone with a word the Lord appeas'd this strife
 Injoyning silence till he did vnfold
 That precious volume calld the Booke of Life
 Which He the Printer priviledg'd of old
     Containing those He freely did inbrace :
     Nor over would I wish an higher grace
     Than in this Booke to hae the lowest place.

Within this Booke he sought for David's name
 Which having found He proffered to blot
 (And David surely well deserv'd the same
 That did his nature so with sinne bespot)
     Though none are blotted out but such as never
     Were written in ; nothing God's love can sever ;
     Once written there are written there for ever.

[II. st. 5, 6.]

Similarly on Original Sin :—

But ah! this infant's guilt from him proceeds
 That knew the least when most he sought to know :
 Who most was nak't when cloathed in his weeds
 Best cloathed then when naked he did goe :
     In vayne the wit of wisest men doth strive
     To cut off this intayle, that doth derive
     Death unto all when first they are alive.

[III. st. 6.]

It is only due to our Worthy to add his 'charitable' stanza on the absence of the rite of baptism:

So this babe's life, newly begun, did end
 Which sure receiv'd the substance though not sign'd
 With grace's seale : God freely doth attend
 His ordinance, but will not be confin'd
     Thereto when 'tis not neglected nor despis'd
     They that want water are by fire baptiz'd
     Those sanctify'd that ne're were circumcis'd.

[III. st. 8.]

Besides these theological opinions we have in this Poem—and elsewhere—unmistakeable utterances on kindred matters. I select these four—prefixing headings—

1. Drunkenness :

My prayers for friends prosperity and wealth
 Shall ne're be wanting : but if I refuse
 To hurt myself by drinking others' health
 Oh let ingenious natures mee excuse :
     If men bad manners this esteeme, then I
     Desire to be esteem'd unmannerly
     That to live well will suffer wine to dye.

[I. st. 27.]

2. Preaching :

Goe fond affectors of a flanting straine
 Whose sermons strike at sinnes with slenting blowes!
 Give me the man that's powerfull and plaine
 The monster Vice vnmasked to expose :
 Such preachers doe the soule and marrow part
 And cause the guilty conscience to smart
 Such please no itching eares but peirce the heart.

[II. st. 22.]

3. Female-humility :

Ah! happy age when ladies learn't to bake
 And when kings daughters knew to knead a cake.
 Rebecka was esteem'd of comely hew
 Yet not so nice her comelinesse to keepe
 But that shee water for the cammells drew :
 Rachell was faire, yet fedd her father's sheepe
 But now for to supply Rebecka's place
 Or doe as Rachell did is counted base :
 Our dainty dames would take it in disgrace.<sup>1</sup>

[III. st. 11, 12.]

<sup>1</sup> This reminds me of an anecdote of a quaint old Scotch 'minister' of the last century (Mr Comrie of Pennicuik). His Congregation had been engaged in making a pecuniary effort to pay off debt on the Church by a kind of anticipation of what are now called Bazaars. It did not prove a success; and mainly through the lack of zeal of the ladies. Chagrined, Mr Comrie in a speech afterwards, looking the gay-dressed fair ones full in the face remarked dryly, 'The leddies noo-a-days pit me in mind o' the Lilies [All attention expecting a compliment]—they toil not neither do they spin.'

4. False-friendship :

Before such kisses come vpon my face
 Oh! let the deadly scorpion me sting
 Yea rather than such armes should me imbrace
 Let curling snakes about my body cling:
     Than such faire words I'de rather the fowle
     Vntuned schreeching of the dolefull owle
     Or heare the direfull mountaine-wolfe to howle.

[Ibid. st. 26.]

I must leave the reader to dig for like nuggets. Preceded by GEORGE PEELE in his 'Love of King David and Fair Bet'sabe with the Tragedie of Absalom' (1599) and coming into comparison with the 'Davideis; a heroical poem on the troubles of David,' of ABRAHAM COWLEY—his contemporary and fellow-student at Cambridge—Fuller's first Poem loses nothing beside them.

The 'Panegyrick' has happy lines: and was the genuine utterance of our large-hearted Worthy's loyalty to his ideal of monarchy. Hence the transfiguration of Charles the Second. Historically it is valuable as an evidence of the glowing hopes that centred in the 'merry monarch.' The actual 'Life' Fuller did not witness. He was 'gone' before the brightness of the exile-years paled into foulest Night. High-pitched as is his praise it is low compared with innumerable contemporary 'Welcomes' still preserved in the British Museum and elsewhere.<sup>1</sup>

The Translation-verses I have already characterized: though truth to tell many of them only two faithfully answer his own apologetic description, 'Yet because some love poetry, either very good or very bad, that if they cannot learn from it, they may laugh at it, they are here inserted.'<sup>2</sup> Others are in daintiness of wording and quaintness of their turns as the Songs of Shakespere and Jonson to their Plays. The 'Flowers' must lose in their transplantation (or cutting) even with the words as so much living earth—Fuller's earth, Fuller himself would have said—attached: ay, were they put into 'Pots' such as Keats' 'basil' grew in. Still I have given as much of the context in which the 'Verses' occur as to impart interest.

I do not at all claim poetic genius for 'rare' THOMAS FULLER, or for independent poetic fame. But everything that serves to furnish insight into the whole nature of a great man has its own use and worth. It is noticeable that while he did not follow up his 'David's Hainous Sinne,' etc., with other poems of like-length and kin, he yet kept singing unto the end. There must have been a string that vibrated to the subtle 'breath' when the music—and words to it—was so inevitable and irrepressible. Biographers and critics have failed as it seems to us, to recognise this element in the large, rich, most winsome nature of our Worthy.

<sup>1</sup> I must ask the student, however, to keep in mind that with very few exceptions the present apostrophe of the possessive case was unemployed by Fuller and his contemporaries—e.g., we read not Truth's but Truths, Romes not Rome's. I have also somewhat modified the use of capitals and italics, which are used very arbitrarily.

agreeing herein with the venerated Keble that 'in one respect especially, i.e. as a specimen and monument of language, ancient books lose very much of their value by the neglect of ancient orthography.'<sup>1</sup> For popular, practical use, modernization of spelling is not only permissible, but absolutely necessary. On the other hand, to the circle to whom this reprint addresses itself, faithfulness to the author is a sine qua non. I have used all the care that I could command: and I venture to hope not in vain.<sup>2</sup> A few Notes explanatory of names and references, bear my initial G. Those of Fuller himself, F. Of course in the Translation-Verses and originals from his prose Works the reader must turn to the several places for further information as to names and things introduced. It were misplaced annotation to enlarge on these in such a small venture as the present.

Besides the Poems and Verse-Translations

<sup>2</sup> I cannot expect to be found faultless, for even so scholarly and able an editor as Dr Nuttall in his edition of the 'Worthies' very often errs—e.g., in No. LIV. of our extracts from the 'Worthies' he misreads 'paths for parts,' and reduces the sweet couplet to nonsense: in No. LXIV. for 'townsmen' reads 'townmen.'

and Epigrams as enumerated, I give as an Appendix the 'Form of Prayer' used by Dr Fuller. The book in which it is contained is of the very rarest: and hence in Notes and Queries and elsewhere this 'Form' has been repeatedly inquired for—in vain. To the erudite Librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge (W. Aldis Wright, Esq., M.A.) I am indebted for this addition to the Fulleriana of our volume.

I close this Introduction with some pat lines from that finely-touched old Translator—ARTHUR GOLDING, which I have chanced on unreferenced in my Common Place Book:—

Whoso doth attempt this Author's works to read Must bring with him a stayèd head and judgment to proceed;
 For as there be most wholesome hests and precepts to be found
 So are there rocks and shallow shelves to run the ship
     a-ground.

P.S.—As I send my Manuscript to the Printers there reaches me a reprint of 'David's Hainous Sinne, etc., tacked on to Fuller's Party-coloured-Coat, a Comment on 1 Corinthians xi.,' etc. The volume is edited by Mr William Nichols, and forms one of a number of Fuller-reprints from the house of Tegg—most welcome! But the modernisation of the orthography of the Poem is inexcusable. In no respect can it come into competition with our volume apart from its giving only one of the poetic productions of the Author. G.

LDYS on 'David's Hainous Sinne,' etc., from Biographia Britannica [Vol.
iii. page 2050, folio.] 'The first performance of our author that has appeared to us in print, being a divine poem, very rare to be met with, and having had no description of it, the following account may not be unacceptable to the curious. It is entitled . . . A critical reader of poetry might find matters of remark in it; either to commend in some agreeable descriptions, natural similies, and instructive reflections; or to censure in some few parts of the style, which were fashionable elegancies in those times: but in the whole promising that had he persevered in the study and culture of poetry, his genius might have advanced him to some considerable rank among those contemporaries who were then favorites of the Muses.
His good sense and ingenuity at that age is distinguishable enough; his versification is more compact or limited, and usually flows with smoother cadence than that of some riper wits of great name in those days. Among other observable parts, the very proposition and invocation are very comprehensive, solemn, and regular: the persuasions of David by the Spirit and the Flesh; with the description of Uriah's drunkenness, are very natural: the obsequious offer of the Elements to destroy David upon his transgression, and after his restitution to relieve and cherish him, are somewhat picturesque, and touching upon Spencer's imag[e]ry in miniature: his comparison of those variable elements upon this occasion, to temporising courtiers, who will fawn upon a minister when he is restored to favour, as fast as they flouted him in disgrace, looks to have something in it perfectly alive; and so does that figure wherein we may imagine that we see Absalom cringing with supple neck and knees about the court, to gather up what alms and fragments he could of popular favour and interest, by seizing upon one man's hand to steal away his heart, and sucking out the soul of another with deceitful kisses; inquiring the name of this, the business of that, and the country of t'other, to serve them all! prostituting his promises and enslaving himself to errant slaves: in whom also we have a further glimpse of pride itself, groveling to be exalted to grandeur, and exercising all the abject spirit of the most beggarly poor, to worm itself into riches : or as one author reads it—

‘ Proud men are base to compass their desires ;
They lowest crouch that highest do aspire.’<sup>1</sup>

But this is a picture not near so agreeable as that of plain-dealing Nathan, in his state of moderation ; the knowing and communicative, the kind and compassionate Nathan, who being skilled in lancing a fester'd soul, in searching and tenting the sore, and stanching a bleeding-hearted sinner, would heal his wounds with the sovereign balsam of counsel, or bind up the disjointed members of his troubled mind. He was neither oppressed with that plenty which made him envied nor distressed with that penury which made him despised : his pursuits were circumscribed to his possessions ; and as he was in no needful want, he thought wanton need most despicable ; or that want in sufficiency was the true mother of contempt : so, as his desires were planted within the most temperate situations of command, they produced the sweetest fruits of content ; for, as our poet says :

<sup>1</sup> A similar turn of thought occurs in his Andronicus when the usurper ceremoniously kissed the feet of the young monarch. ‘The spectators variously commented on his prodigious humility therein ; some conceiving he meant to build high because he began so low.’ G.

‘ High hills are parch’d with heat or hid with snow,
And humble dales, soon drown’d, that lie too low,
Whilst happy grain on hanging hills doth grow.’<sup>1</sup>

Descriptions more flowery might be hither transplanted ; such as are so gently strewn over David’s child in death, and others ; but as his gravity in this poem prevails over the natural gaiety of his genius, we have chosen in this historical work to instance those few particulars which are rather in the edifying and profitable than to hunt after such as may run into a more pleasing and poetical vein. At the close of this performance our author having subsided into the characters of Queen Elizabeth, King James, and King Charles I., and lamented the loss of the

‘ Even situations far depressed beneath the familiar mediocrity of life are more picturesque and poetical than its ordinary level. It is, certainly, on the virtues of the middling ranks of life that the strength and comforts of society chiefly depend, in the same manner as we look for the harvest, not in cliffs and precipices, but on the easy slope and uniform plain.’—Specimens.

This sentiment well comports with F.’s moderate life. But he was no neuter ‘ of that lukewarm temper which heaven and hell doth hate.’—(ANDRONICUS). G.

Duke of Brunswick, with the discords then in Europe thro' the wars in the Netherlands, Denmark, etc., he very properly and piously concludes that those grievances may be bewailed by mankind but till they are reversed by Providence, they are more befitting his prayers than his pen.'

FAIRE branches of a stock as faire
Each a some and each an heire :
Two Joseph-like from sire so sage,
Sprung in autumnne of his age ;
But a Benjamin the other
Gain'd with losing of his mother.
This fruit of some spare hours I spent
To your Honours I present.

A king I for my subject have
And noble patrons well may crave ;
Things tripartite are fit for three,
With youths, things youthful best agree ;
Take them therefore in good part
Of him that ever prayeth in heart
That as in height ye waxe apace,
Your souls may higher grow in grace.

Whilst your father (like the greene
Eagle in his scutcheon scene :
Which with bill his age doth cast)
May longer still and longer last :

Thus I my booke to make an end
To you : and you to God commend.

Your Honours in all service

DAVID'S HAINOUS SINNE.

OW Zion's Psalmist grievously offended

How Israel's Harper did most foulely slide,

Yet how that Psalmist penitent, amended

And how that Harper patient did abide Deserved chastisement (so fitly stil'd

Which wrath inflicted not but love most mild

Not for to hurt but heale a wanton child.)

How one by her owne brother was defiled

And how that brother by a brother slaine ;

And how a father by his sonne exiled :

And by a subject, had a soveraigne :

How peace procured after battels fierce

As Sol at length doth sullen cloudes dispierce :

My Muse intends the subject of her verse.

3.

Great God of might whose power most soveraigne

Depends of none yet all of Thee depend,

Time cannot measure, neither place containe
Nor wit of man Thy being comprehend :

For whil'st I thing on Three, I am confin'd
To One, and when I One conceive in minde
I am recal'd to Three in One combin'd

4.

Thy helpe I crave, Thy furtherance I aske
My head, my heart, my hand direct and guide,
That whil'st I vndertake this weighty taske
I from Thy written lore start not aside :

Alas ! 'tis nothing Lord with Thee to breake
The strong : 'tis nothing to support the weake
To make men dumbe, to make an infant speake.

5.

Each one begotten by immortall seed
Becomes the pitcht feild of two deadly foes ;
Spirit and flesh, these never are agreed
With trucelesse warre each other doth oppose ;
And though the spirit oft the flesh doth quell
It may subdue but can it not expell
So stoutly doth the Jebusite rebell.

6.

Now David when on Bathsheba loose eyes
He fixt, his heavenly halfe did him disswade ;

Turne, turne away thy sight from vanities
 Exchange thy object, else thou wilt be made
     Made for to lose the truth, such toyes to finde,
     By looking long, made at the last, starke blinde.

7.

What though her face and body be most faire,
 Behold, the sun her beauty doth surpass ;
 His golden beames surmount<sup>2</sup> her yellow hayre
 As far as purest cristall dyrtie glasse :
     Her skinne as is the skie not halfe so cleare
     Her curious veines for colour come not neare
     Those azure streaks that in the heavens appeare.

8.

There let thy hungry sight her famine feede,
 Whereon it cannot surfet with excesse :
 Whil'st tongue, heart, harp are tuned vp with speed,
 The grand-contrivers, glory to expresse :
     Framing with words to rayse his mighty name
     That with a mighty word did rayse this frame,
     And by his providence preserves the same.

9.

But let no lustfull thoughts lodge in thy minde,
 Before that they be borne, they must be kill'd,
 Or else the man is cruell that is kinde
 To spare the foes wherewith his soule is spill'd :
 And if a wanton motion may request,
 Leave for to lodge a limbe th' ineroaching guest
 Will soone command roome to receive the rest.

10.

Looke towards the mid-day sun, and thou shalt see
 A little tower<sup>1</sup> o're topps of hills to peepe ;
 That is the birth place of thy pedygree :
 Full oft there hast thou fed thy father's sheepe,
 And kept his flockes vpon the flowry plaine :
 But now the sheepe-hook of a country swaine
 Is turn'd the septer of a soveraigne.

11.

God made thee great, oh doe not Him disgrace
 And by His weighty statutes lightly set :

<sup>1</sup> The tower of Eder nigh Bethlehem 7 miles from Jerusalem. F.

Hee honour'd thee, oh doe not Him debase;
 Hee thee remembred, doe not Him forget :<sup>1</sup>
 Why should fat<sup>1</sup> Jeshurun so wanton grow
 As at his maister's head his heeles to throw?
 Maister : that all his feeding did bestow.

12.

Behold high cedars in the valley set
 They in thy eyes like little shrubbs doe show,
 Whil'st little shrubbs vpon mount Oliuet
 Seeme lofty cedars : men whose states are low
 Their sinnes are not so obvious to sense :
 In princes, persons of great eminence
 A smaller fault doth seeme a great offence.

13.

But grant, no man thy wickednes espies
 Surely the Searcher of the reines doth marke Even infant lust? can figg-leaves bleare his eyes?
 Or can thy shame bee shrowded in the darke?
 Darknes shall then be turned into light
 Yea darknes is no darknes, in His sight
 But seeme the same to Him both day and night.

<sup>1</sup> Deut. xxxii. 15. F.

14.

The Spirit had resolved more to speake
 But her halfe-spoken words the Flesh confounds:
 Nor wonder is it, she so vs'd to breake
 God's lawes, not passing for to passe their bounds
     Against man's rules of manners should offend
     Which was impatient longer to attend
     Began before her rivall made an end.

15.

If euer nature lavishly did throw
 Her gifts on one which might haue served more
 Yet make them comely: if shee e're did show
 The prime, and pride, and plenty of her store.
     Loe, there's the forme wherein she hath exprest
     Her utmost power, and done the very best
     Her maister-peece surpassing all the rest.

16.

What if those carelesse tresses were attired?
 Sure then her face for comelines transcends:
 What now seemes lovely then would be admired,
 If art might but begin where nature ends.
     Alas! ten thousand pitties 'tis indeed
     That princes on so common fare should feed
     Whilst common men on princely meat exceed.

17.

Alwayes the same doth glut the appetite
 But pleased is our palate with exchange ;
 Variety of dishes doth delight :
 Then give thy loose affections leave to range.
     Forbidden things are best, and when we eate
     What we have silyly gotten by deceit :
     Those morsels onely make the daynty meate.

18.

But oh reserve thy selfe, my maiden muse
 For a more modest subject, and forbear
 To tune such wanton toyes as may abuse
 And give distaste vnto a virgin's care :
     Such rotten reasons first from hell did flow
     And thither, let the same in silence goe,
     Best knowne of them that did them never know.

19.

Thus hee that conquer'd men and beast most cruell (Whose greedy pawes with fellow goods were found)
 Answer'd Goliath's challenge in a duell
 And lay'd the giant groveling on the ground :
     He that of Philistines two hundred slue
     No whit appalled at their grisly hue
     Him one frayle woman's beauty did subdue.

20.

Man is a shippe, affections the sayle
 The world the sea, our sinnes the rocks and shelves,
 God is the pylot, if He please to fayle
 And leave the steering of us to ourselves
 Against the rugged rocks wee run amaine
 Or else the winding shelves doe us detaine
 Till God the Palinure returns againe.

21.

Yet David bold to sinne, did fear the shame :
 He shunn'd the sheath that ran upon the knife :
 With a fine fetch<sup>1</sup> providing for his fame
 He fetcheth home Vriah to his wife :
 So under his chaste love to cloake his owne
 Vnlawful lust to fault most carelesse growne,
 Most carefull that his fault should not be knowne.

22.

But in their plots God doth befoole the wise
 By wayes that none can trace, all must admire :
 Short of his house that night Vriah lyes,
 And David so came short of his desire :
 The man a nearer lodging place did use

<sup>1</sup> Expedient. G.

(Which made the king on further plots to muse)

And sent home, home to goe, did thus refuse.

23.

The pilgrime arke doth sojourn in a tent :
In open fields Joab my lord doth lye,
And all the souldiers of his regiment
Have earth their beds, the heaven their canopy :
Where bitter blasts of stormy winds are rife.
Shall I goe feast, drink, dally with my wife ?
Not, as I live, and by your lordship's life.

24.

Then by his servants David did conspire
Uriah's lust so dull, with wine to edge :
(Venus doth freeze where Bacchus yeelds no fire)
By their constraint, he condescends to pledge
One common cup that was begun to all
Captaines incamped nigh to Rabba wall ;
One specially vnto the generall.

25.

Abishay next is drunke to Joab's brother
And this cupp to a second paves the way ;
That orderly doth vs her in another :
Thus wine once walking knowes not where to stay :

Yea such a course methodicall they take
 In ordering of cupps the same did make Vriah quite all order to forsake.

26.

His false supporters soone began to slipp
 And if his faltring tongue doth chance to light
 On some long word hee speedily doth elip
 The traine thereof: yea his deceitfull sight
     All obiects paired doth present to him:
     As double faces; both obscure and dim
     Seeme in a lying looking-glasse to swim.

27.

My prayers for friends prosperity, and wealth
 Shall ne're be wanting, but if I refuse
 To hurt myself by drinking others health
 Oh let ingenious natures mee excuse:
     If men bad manners this esteeme, then I
     Desire to be esteem'd unmannerly
     That to live well will suffer wine to dye.

28.

Well did blind Homer see, for to expresse
 The vice that spawnes all other, when he faines
 Dame Circe an enchanting sorceresse Whose cupps made many men foregoe their braines

Whilst with the witlesse asse one purely<sup>1</sup> doats
 Others mishaped are, like lustfull goates,
 Or swil-ingrossing swine, with greedy throats.

29.

Though bad yet better was Vriah left :
 Not quite a beast though scarce a man ; disturb'd
 In minde, but not distracted nor bereft
 Of witt ; though drunk yet soberly hee curb'd
 His lust ; being wise though ignorant, to crosse
 The kings designs who now new thoughts doth tosse
 Finding his former project at a losse.

30.

The night with mourning-weeds the world becladd
 When restlesse David for to mend his matter
 Did make it worse : his naked sinne was bad
 More monstrous being maskt ; they oft doe scatter
 The chayne that of God's lawes vnloose a linke :
 Hee swam before in sinne nigh to the brinke
 But now he meanes in midst thereof to sinke.

31.

Then for a light hee speedily did call
 (Thou Darknes with his project bst agree'd !)

<sup>1</sup> Prettily. G.

For paper, pen and inke, to write withall
 Though sure a poinard might have don the deed
     Better if hee in blood had dippèd it
     And on a sheet of paper what he writ
 A winding sheet far better did befit.

32.

This certs I know as sepian juice did sinke
 Into his spongy paper, sabling o're
 The same with various-forméd specks of inke
 Which was so pure and lilly-white before :
     So spots of sinne the writers soule did staine
     Whose soylie tincture did therein remaine
 Till brinish tears had washt it out againe.

33.

Next day when Day was scarce an infant growne
 Vriah (that no mischiefè did mistrust
 As none hee did decerve, but by his owne Did measure all men's dealings to bee just)
     Bearing this letter, on his journey past
     With speed, who needed not to make such hast
 Whose death had he gone slow did come too fast.

34.

Thus crafty maisters when they minde to beate
 A carelesse boy to gather birch they send him ;

The little lad doth make the rod compleat Thinking his maister therefore will commend him:

But busily imploy'd, he little thought
Hee made the net wherein himselfe was caught
And must be beaten with the birch hee brought.

35.

His journey came well to the welcome end
Safe to the<sup>1</sup> towne of waters hee attaines
Towne which to force Joab his force did bend
(Nought is so hard but vincible by paines)
Some with their heads did plot, some with their hands
Did practise yea as ready was the band
To serve as was the captaine to command.

36.

So busie bees, some fly abroad at large
Of flowry nectar for to fetch their fill:
Some stay at home for to receive their charge
And trustily the liquor doe distill:
Or bottle it in waxe, whilst others strive Like sturdy martialls, far away to drive
The drowsy droanes that harbour in the hive.

37.

The strong-arm'd archer from his crooked bow
 Made a strait shaft with dismall newes to speed
 Into the towne, which ne're return'd to show
 The sender how his message did succeed :

Yea heavie bodies mounted were on high,
 Dull stones to which dame Nature did deny Feete for to goe, Art made them wings to fly.

38.

Whilst in the towne one with his friend did talk
 A sudden stroake did take his tongue away ;
 Some had their leggs arrested as they walke
 By martiall law commanding them to stay :

Here falls a massy beame, a mighty wall
 Comes tumbling there, and many men doth maule

Who were both slaine and buried by the fall.

39.

Were there not vsèd in the days of yore
 Enough men-murdering engines? but our age
 Witty in wickednes must make them more,
 By new found plotts mens malice to inrage :

So that fire-spitting canons to the cost
 Of Christian blood all valour have ingrost, Whose finding makes that many a life is lost.

40.

Whilst thus the well-appointed army fought
 Winding in worm-like trenches neare the wall
 To humble the proud towers, Vriah brought
 The speaking paper to the generall

Who when such language hee therein did finde

He thought himselfe or els the King vs blinde, Himselfe in body or the King in minde.

41.

Then hee the letter did peruse againe
 The words, the words of David could not bee
 And yet the hand, for David's hand was plaine,
 Hee thought it was and thought it was not hee :

Each little line he thorowly did view

Till at the length more credulous he grew

And what he thought was false he found too true.

42.

Now Joab thy valour be display'd

Act not a midwife to a deed vnjust ;

By feare or favour be not oversway'd

To prove a pander to a prince's lust :

Returne a humble answer baek agane

Let each word breath submission, to obtaine

By prayers a conquest of thy soueraigne.

43.

Shew how when God and countries good requires
 Thou substance, soule and body to ingage
 Is the ambition of thy best desires :
 Foes forraine to resist, to quell their rage
     How willingly would'st thou thy selfe despise,
     Count loosing of thy goods a gainfull prize
     Lavish thy blood and thy life sacrifice.

44.

But when God's love directly doth withstand
 And where his lawes the contrary convince<sup>1</sup>
 Wee must not breake the heavenly king's command
 Whilst we do seeke to please an earthly prince :
     The burdens they impose on us to beare
     Our dutie is to suffer them : but where Kings bid and God forbids we must forbear.

45.

Behold the man whose valour once surmounted
 In sacking Zion's mount (mount not so high
 As men therein were haughty !) and accounted
 Of worthies chiefe doth most unworthily :
     Hee that to summe the people of the land
     Withstood the King now with the King doth
 Too buxome<sup>2</sup> for to finish his command.

46.

Next morne when early Phœbus first arose
 (Which then arose last in Vriah's sight)
 Him Joab in the forfront did dispose
 From whom the rest recoylèd in the fight :

Thus of his friends betray'd by subtill traine
 Assaulted of his foes with might and maine
 He lost his life, not conquerèd but slaine.

47.

His mangled body they expose to scorne<sup>1</sup>
 And now each cravin coward dare defie him,
 Outstaring his pale visage, which beforne<sup>1</sup>
 Were palsy-strook, with trembling to come nigh
 him :

Thus heartlesse hares with purblind eyes do peere
 In the dead lyon's pawes, yea dastard decre
 Over his heartlesse corps dare domineere.

DAVID'S HEARTIE REPENTANCE.

1.

HE tongue of guiltlesse blood is never ti'd

In the earth's mouth, and though the greedy ground

Her gaping crannies quickly did provide
To drinke the liquor of Vriah's wound

Yet it with moanes besscatterèd the skies
And the revoicing eecho, with replies
Did descant on the playn-song of the cries.

Hereat the Lord perceiving how the field
Hee sow'd with grace, and compast with an heape

Of many measures, store of sinnes did yeild
Where he expected store of thankes to reape,
With flames of anger, furnace-like he burn'd :
For patience long despis'd and lewdly spurn'd
Is at the length to raging fury turn'd.

3.

Then all the creatures musterèd their traine
 From angells vnto worms, the blinde did see
 Their Lord disgrac't, whose honour to maintaine Things wanting life most lively seeme to be ;
 Refusing all to serve man that refus'd
 To serve his God, all striving to be us'd
 To punish him, his Maker that abus'd.

4.

Please it your Highnes for to give me leave
 I'le scorch the wretch to cinders said the Fire :
 Send me said Aire, him I'le of breath bereave ;
 No quoth the earnest Water I desire
 His soylie sinnes with deluges to scoure ; Nay let my Lord quoth Earth imploy my power
 With yawning chapps I will him quick devour.

5.

Soone with a word the Lord appeas'd this strife
 Injoyning silence till He did vnfold
 That precious volume cald the Booke of Life
 Which He the Printer priuiledg'd of old
 Containing those He freely did imbrace :
 Nor ever would I wish an higher grace
 Than in this Booke to have the lowest place.

6.

Within this Booke hee sought for David's name
 Which having found He proffered to blot
 (And David surely well deserv'd the same
 That did his nature so with sinne bespot
     Though none are blotted out but such as never Were written in : nothing God's love can sever ;

7.

Strait from His throne the Prince of Peace arose
 And with embraces did His Father binde
 Imprisoning his armes, He did so close
 (As loving iyve on an oake did winde
     And with her curling flexures it betraile)
     His Father glad to finde His force to fayle
     Strugel'd as one not willing to prevaile.

8.

Thus then began the Spotlesse Lambe to speake (One word of Whom would rend the sturdy rocke,
 Make hammer-scorning adamant to breake,
 And vnto sense perswade the senseles stocke,
     Yea God Himselfe that knowes not to repent
     Is made by His petitions penitent
     His Justice made with Mery to relent.)

9.

Why doth my Father's fury burne so fierce?
 Shall Persian lawes vnalterable stand?
 And shall my Lord decree and then reverse,
 Enact and then repeale, and counter-mand?
 Tender Thy credit, gracious God, I crave
 And kill not him Thou didst conclude to save
 Can these hands blot what these hands did ingrave?

10.

Hath not Thy wisdom from eternity
 Before the worlds foundation first was lay'd
 Decree'd, the due time once expir'd, that I Should flesh become and man borne of a maide?
 To live in poverty and dye with paine
 That so Thy Sonne for sinners vilely slaine Might make vile sinners live Thy sonnes againe?

11.

Let Me, oh let Me Thy feirce wrath asswage
 And for this sinner begg a full discharge:
 What though hee justly doth provoke Thy rage?

Thy justice I will satisfie at large.

If that the Lord of Life must murder'd bee
 Let mee intreat this murd'rer may goe free
 My meritts cast on him, his sinnes on Me.

12.

Thus speaking from His fragrant cloaths there went

A pleasant breath whose odour did excell

Myrrhe, aloes and cassia for sent

And all perfum'd His Father with the smell

Whereat His smothèd face most sweetly smil'd

And hugging in His arms His dearest child

Return'd those welcome words, with voyce

most milde.

13.

Who can so pleasing violence withstand?

Thy craving is the hauing a request

Such mild intreaties doe my heart command

The 'mends is made and pacifi'd I rest :

As far as earth from heaven doe distant lye

As east is parted from the westerne skye

So far his sinnes are sever'd from Mine eye.

14.

Hereat the heavenly quire lift vp their voyce

Angells and saints imparadis'd combine

Vpon their golden vials to rejoyce

To rayse the prayse of the celestiall Trine,

All in their songs a sacred strife exprest

Which could sing better and surpasse the rest

All did surpasse themselves and sang the best.

15.

Then said the Fire my fury I recant
 Life-hatching warmth I will for him provide :
 If David's breathlesse lungs do chance to pant
 Said Aire Il'e fanne them with a windy tide :
     With moisture Il'e, said Water, quench his heat
     And I his hunger quoth the Earth, with meat
     Of marrow, fatnesse and the flower of wheat.

16.

Thus when a lord long buried in disgrace
 A king to former favour doth restore
 With all respect the court doth him embrace
 Fawning as fast as they did flowte before :
     Where smiles or frownes are but the bare reflexion
     Of the king's face, and like to this direction
     Where hee affects they settle their affection.

17.

Plaine-dealing Nathan presently was sent Nathan, than whom was none more skill'd to lanch
 A festred soule, and with a searching tent<sup>1</sup>
 To sound the sore : more cunning none to stanch

<sup>1</sup> Roll of lint used in searching or purifying a wound.
 Cf. my Glossary to Sibbes sc. G.

A bleeding-hearted sinner nor more kinde
 With swadling cloaths of comfort for to binde
 Vnjoynted members of a troubled minde.

18.

Hee did not flow with wealth which envye heeds
 Nor yet was he with penury opprest :
 Want is the cause from which contempt proceeds :
 His meanes were in the meane, and that's the best.
 High hills are parcht with heate or hid with snow
 And humble dales sone drown'd, that lie too low
 Whilst happy graine on hanging hills doth grow.

19.

For sundry duties he did dayes deuide
 Making exchange of worke his recreation ;
 For prayer he set the precious morne aside,
 The mid-day he bequeath'd to meditation :
 Sweete sacred stories he reserv'd for night
 To reade of Moses' meeknes, Sampson's might :
 These were his joy, these onely his delight.

20.

But now dispensing with his dayly taske
 To Court he comes and wisely did invent

Vnder a parable his mind to maske Seeming to meane nought lesse than what he meant,
 And lapwing-like round fluttering a-while
 With far-fetcht præface and a witty wile,
 Hee made the king himselve for to beguile.

21.

Thus he that thought all mortall men to cheate
 And with false shewes his secret sinnes to shade,
 Was couzned by the innocent deceite
 Of one plaine prophet, and directly made
     As he a iudge sate on the bench, to stand
 At barr a prisoner, holding<sup>1</sup> up his hand
     But first condemned by his owne command.<sup>2</sup>

Goe fond<sup>3</sup> affectors of a flanting straine
 Whose sermons strike at sinnes with slenting blowes,
 Give me the man that's powerfull and plaine
 The monster Vice vnmaskèd to expose :

Such preachers doe the soule and marrow part
 And cause the guilty conscience to smart
 Such please no itching eares but peirce the heart.

23.

This made King David's marble minde to melt
 And to the former temper to returne
 Thawing his frozen breast, whenas he felt
 The lively sparks of grace therein to burne
 Which vnder ashes cold were choakt before :
 And now hee weeps and wayles and sighs full sore
 Though sure such sorrow did his joy restore.

24.

So have I seene one slumber'd in a swound
 Whose sullen soule into his heart did hie
 His pensive friends soone heave him from the ground
 And to his face life-water doe apply :
 At length a long-expected sigh doth strive
 To bring the wellcome newes, the man's alive
 Whose soule at last doth in each part arive.

25.

Then to his harpe he did himselfe betake
 (His tongue-tide harpe, long gowne out of request)

And next to this his glory<sup>1</sup> must awake

The member he of all accounted best :

Then with those hands which he for griefe did wring

Hee also lightly striks the warbling string

And makes one voice serve both to sob and sing.

26.

That heavenly voyce to heare, I more desire

Than Syrens sweetest songs, than musicke made

By Philomele chiefe of the wingèd quire :

Or him whose layes so pleasing, did perswade

Stones for to lackey when he went before ;<sup>2</sup>

Or that brave harper whom unto the shore

His hackny dolphin safely did restore.<sup>3</sup>

DAVID'S HEAVIE PUNISHMENT.

DOST true it is when penitents by grace Acquitted are, the pardon of their sinnes

And punishments release do both imbrace
Like to a paire of vndivided twinns
Parted they cannot be, they cleave so fast
Yet when the tempest of God's wrath is past Still his afflicting hony-shower doth last.

But let the Schooles these thorny points dispute
Whose searching sight can naked truth disery,
Skulking in errors arms, and are acute
Fine-fingred with distinctions to untye Knots more than Gordian, these men never mist
The slender marke, like<sup>1</sup> those in whose left fist
There did so much dexterity consist.

3.

Meane time my Muse come see how prettily
 The patient infant doth itself behave;
 Infant but newly borne, now neare to dye,<sup>1</sup>
 That from the cradle posted to the grave.

See with what silent signes and sighes full faine Poore heart it would expresse where lies the paine
 Complaining that it knowes not to complaine.

4.

Stay cruell Death! thy hand for pittty hold!
 Against some aged grand-sire bend thy bow
 That now hath full twice forty winters told,
 Whose head is silver'd o're with ages snow:
     Dash out this babe, out of thy dismall bill
     And in exchange let him thy number fill
     So may he life, his friends enjoy him still.

5.

These hands to hurt another never sought
 Which cannot helpe themselves they are so weake;
 His heart did never hatch a wanton thought,
 His tongue did never lye that cannot speake:

<sup>1</sup> The death of King David's child. F.

By wrong and violence he ne're did wrest
 The goods wherewith his neighbour is possest
 When strength scarce servs to suck the nurse's brest.

6.

But ah ! this infant's guilt from him proceeds
 That knew the least when most he sought to know ;
 Who most was nak't when cloathed in his weeds
 Best cloathed then when naked he did goe :
 In vayne the wit of wisest men doth strive
 To cut off this intayle, that doth derive<sup>1</sup>
 Death unto all when first they are alive.

7.

As when a tender rose begins to blow
 Yet scarce unswaddled is, some wanton maide,
 Pleas'd with the smell, allured vith the show
 Will not reprove it till it hath display'd
 The folded leaves : but to her brest applies
 Th' abortive budd, where coffin'd it lye's
 Losing the blushing dye before it dies.

8.

So this babe's life, newly begun, did end
 Which sure receiv'd the substance though not sign'd
 With grace's seale: God freely doth attend
 His ordinance, but will not be confin'd
 Thereto when 'tis not neglected nor despis'd
 They that want water are by fire baptiz'd
 Those sanctify'd that ne're were circumcis'd.

9.

Sweet babe one sabbath thou on earth didst see
 But endless sabbaths doest in heaven survive:
 Grant, Death of joyfull bowers deprived thee
 Thou hadst seene yeares of sorrowes if alive:
 True thou wast borne a prince but now art crown'd
 A king by death; sleepe therefore in the ground
 Sweetly untill the trumpet last shall sound.

10.

By this child's death king David did sustaine
 One losse: but where this misery did end
 More miseries began: as in a chayne
 One link doth on another linke depend:
 His lust with lust, his slaying with a slaughter
 Must punish't be: proportion'd thereafter
 To mother sinne is punishment the daughter.

11.<sup>1</sup>

Amnon advis'd by Jonadab, a fit
 Of sicknesse faines : men wickedly inclin'd
 Worse counsellors (that with great store of wit
 Have dearth of grace) most easily may find :
 And Thamar's hands his meate must onely make :
 Ah ! happy age when ladies learn't to bake
 And when kings daughters knew to knead a cake.

12.

Rebecka was esteem'd of comely hew
 Yet not so nice her comelnesse to keepe
 But that shee water for the cammells drew :
 Rachell was faire, yet fedd her father's sheepe
 But now for to supply Rebecka's place
 Or doe as Rachell did is counted base :
 Our dainty dames would take it in disgrace.

13.

But quickly did his beastly lust declare
 That he to eate her daynties had no neede :
 He for the cooke not for the cates<sup>2</sup> did care
 Shee was the dish on whom he meant to feed :

<sup>1</sup> The deflouring of Thamar. F.<sup>2</sup> Provisions. G.

Oh how she pray'd and strove with might and maine

And then from striving fell to prayers againe :
But prayers and striving both alike in vaine.

14.

Thus a poore larke imprison'd in the cage
Of a kite claws most sweetly sings at large
Her owne dirge whilst she seeks to calm his rage
And from her jaylor sue's for a discharge :

Who passing<sup>1</sup> for no musick that surpast
To feede his eares whilst that his gutts doe fast
On her that pray'd so long, doth prey at last.

15.

Then with dust-powder'd haire she sore bewayles
And punisht on herselfe her brother's sinne :

Parting her maiden livery with nayles
That parted was with colours, and wherein

White streaks their owner's innocence did show
The bashful red her modesty : the row
Of sable sorrowed for the wearer's woe.

16.

Comfort thyselfe more virtuous than faire
More faire than happy virgin, mourn with measure

<sup>1</sup> 'Having regard for.' G.

Sinnes unconsented to no soules impaire
 That must be done perchance with bodies pleasure

Which with the grief of soull may be constrain'd :
 The casket broke the jewell still remain'd
 Vntoucht which in the casket was contain'd

17.

In his brest<sup>1</sup> Absalom records this wrong :
 Out of our minds good turnes doe quickly passe
 But injuries therein remaine too long Those scraw'd in dust but these ingrav'd in brasse :

One sunset for our anger should suffice
 Which in his wrath set oft, oft did arise
 With yearly race surrounding twice the skies.

18.

Now when his fruitfull flocks which long had worne

Their woolen coates for to make others hot
 Were now to forfeit them, and to be shorne (Sure from the silly sheepe his divelish plott
     Their owner never learn'd) hee finds a way
 To worke revenge, and callèd on that day
 His brothers to a feast which prov'd a fray.

19.

What Amnon drunke in wine in blood he spilt
Which did the dainties marre and meate defile
Cupps, carpetts, all with goary streaks were gilt Seeming to blush that cruelly so vile

So fowly savage should the banquet staine :
Thus he that being well did sicknesse faine
Not being sicke was on a suddenne slaine.

20.

The rest refused on the meate to feede
Whose bellies were so full with griefe and feare
To feele what they had scene : away they speed
To ride: but Fame did fly, Fame that doth weare
An hundred listning eares, an hundred eyes ;
An hundred prating tongues, she dayly plies
Tongues that both tell the truth and tattle lyes.

She gets by going and doth gather strength
As balls of snow by rolling more dee gaine
She whisp'rd first but lowdly blaz'd at length
All the kings sonnes, all the kings sonnes are

The pensive Court in dolefull dumps did rue
This dismall case till they the matter knew :
Would all bad news like this might prove

Goe silly soules that doe so much admire
 Court curious intertainment and fine fare
 May you for mee obtaine what you desire
 I for your fowles of Phasis<sup>1</sup> do not care

Happy those swaines that in some shady bower Making the grasse their cloath, the ground their

Downe comes the king to Jordan : on the sand
If that the saylors chance to ground the boat
A flood of teares they straitwayes did command
Whose large accession made the vessell floate :

    So greivously the people did bewayle
    Their very sighs might serve to stuffe the sayle.

His subjects were his hoast and he their guest
Whose place was ill supplied by his child

Surges of sorrow in his heart did rise

And brake the watry sluces of his eyes

Who lightned thus himselfe with heavy cries :

My sonne, whose body had of grace<sup>1</sup> the fill !
 My sonne, whose soule was so devoid of grace !<sup>2</sup>
 Without my knowledgè and against my will
 My sonne, in cause so bad, so strange a place :

     Hee of our flesh is flesh, bone of our bone :
 Nay answer'd Israel in the king wee owne
     Ten parts, a single share is yours alone.

Whilst sparks of discord thus began to smoake
 To finde the bellowes Sheba did conspire part

In David, taught by his seducing art

They discontented to their tents depart.

56.

This rebell Joab whilst to quell he strives,

     finde,
 Which strong as lasting marble she resign'd
 Gold and God's worship both by her refin'd.

Arts did increase his fame, he did increase
 The fame of arts ; and counting twice eleven Twelve months upon his throne, this prince of peace
 By falling to the earth did rise to heaven :

     flow
 Those for the sire deceast exprest our woe,
 Those joy for his succeeding sonne did show.<sup>1</sup>

 reele
 With men, for grief of drowning drown'd in grieffe
 Vntill at length a calme brings them reliefe
 And stills the storme that had so long been briefe.

67.

Oh ! that I might but live tho see the day
 (Day that I more desire then hope to see)
 When all these bloody discords done away
 Our princes in like manner might agree.
 When all the world might smile in perfect peace
 And these long-lasting broyls at length might cease
 Broyles which alas doe dayly more increase.

The warrs in France now layd aside not ended
 Are onely skimmèd over with a scarre
 Yea haughty Alps that to the clouds ascended

 But Turks the cobweb of their truce each howre
 Doe breake ; they wayte a time but want no

But let the cunning Chymicke whose exact
Skill caused light from darknesse to proceed ;
Out of disorder order can extract
Make in his due time all these jars agree'd,

By God alone redressed : and till then
They more befitt my prayers than my pen.

I.

Wor'ster great God's goodness to our Nation

It was a conquest, your bare preservation.

When 'midst your fierces foes on every side
For your escape God did a lane provide ;
They saw you gone, but whither could not tell Star-staring, though they ask'd both heaven and hell.<sup>2</sup>

London, Printed for John Playford at his shop in the Temple. 1660 [4<sup>o</sup>.] An earlier and very much shorter version of the 'Panegyrick' appeared in the 'Worthies' under Worcestershire with these truly Fullerian words 'And here my Muse craves her own Nunc dimittis, never to make verses more: and because she cannot write on a better, will not write on another occasion, but heartily pray in prose for the happiness of her lord and master. And now having taken our Vale of verses' . . . G.

When two Protectors were of late proclaim'd Courting men's tongues, both miss't at what they

But at your majestie's first proclamation
 How loud a stentor did invoice our nation !

But all in vain who openly admir'd.
The French who thought the English mad in mind
Now fear too soon they may them sober find.

18.

The Germans seeing this your sudden power
Freely confess another emperour.
The joyful Dane to heav'ns cast up his eyes
Presuming suffering kings will sympathize.
The Hollanders—first in a sad suspence—
Hop'd that good mercy was their innocence.

19.

As aged Jacob with good news intranc'd
That Joseph was both living and advanc'd :

The great surprize so deeply did prevail
 On the good patriarch that his heart did fail :
 Too little for to lodge so large a joy—
 For sudden happiness may much annoy.

20.

But when he saw—with serious intent
 To fetch him home—the waggons his son sent
 That cordial soon his fainting heart did cure
 'Twas past suspicion, all things then were sure :
 The father his old spirits did renew
 And found his fears were false, his joyes were true.

21.

Such our condition : At the first express
 We could not credit our own happiness ;
 Told of the coming of your majesty
 Our fainting hearts did give their tongues the lye
 A boon too big for us—so ill we live—
 For to receive though not for God to give.

22.

But when we saw the royal Fleet at Dover
 Voted to wait and waft your highness over
 And valient Montague—all vertue's friend<sup>1</sup>— Appointed on your person to attend :

 p. 35. G.

Joy from that moment did expell our grief
Converted into slow but sure belief.

23.

Th' impatient land did for your presence long :
England in swarms did into Holland throug
To bring your highness home, by th' Parliament
Lords, Commons, Citizens, Divines were sent :
Such honour subjects never had before
And hope that never any shall have more.

24.

With all degrees your carriage accords
Most lord-like your reception of the lords :
Your answer with the Commons so comply'd
They were to admiration satisfi'd ;
Civil the citizens you entertain'd—
As if, in London born, y'ad there remain'd.

25.

But oh ! your short, but thick expressive lines
Which did both please and profit the Divines :
Those pastors when returnèd to their charge
For their next sermon had your words at large
With some notes for your practice, who can teach
Our miters by your living what to preach.

26.

The States of Holland (or Low Countries now)
 Unto your sacred majesty did bow :
 What air, what earth, what water could afford
 Best in the kind, was crowded on their board :
 And yet when all was done, the royal guest
 And not the chear ; he, he did make the feast.

27.

Th' officious wind to serve you did not fail
 But scour'd from west to east to fill your sail
 And fearing that his breath might be too rough
 Prov'd over-civil and was scarce enough ;
 Almost you were becalm'd amidst the main
 Prognostick of your perfect, peaceful reign.

28.

Your narrow seas foreigners do wrong
 To claim them—surely doth the ditch belong
 Not to the common continent but isle
 Inclosed—did on you their owner smile :
 Not the least loss, onely the Naseby mar'ls
 To see herself now drowned in the Charles.

29.

You land at Dover, shoals of people come
 And Kent alone now seems all Christendom.

The Cornish rebels, eight score summers since
At Black-heath fought against their lawful prince Henry the Seventh, which place with treason stain'd,
Its credit now, by loyalty regain'd.

30.

Great London the last station you did make
You took not it but London you did take :
Where some who sav'd themselves amongst the croud
Did lose their hearing, shoutings were so loud.
Now at Whitehall the guard which you attends Keeps out your foes : God keep you from your friends.

31.

Thus far fair weather on your work attended
Let showres begin now where the sunshine ended.
Next day we smil'd at th' weeping of the skies
With all concerns how Providence complies !
The city serv'd, next followeth the village
And trading quickned, God provides for tillage.

32.

One face, one forme in all the Land appears
All, former foot now hors'd to cavaliers.
As for your enemies their cursed crew

Are now more hard to find out than subdue.
 'Tis very death to them they cannot dye
 Who do know whence not whither for to flie.

33.

France flouts, Spain scorns and Italy denies them
 Any access: the Dane with Dutch defies them;
 Unto New England they were known of old
 And now no footing for them on that mold.
 Rich Amsterdam—the staple of all sects
 These bankrupt rebels with contempt rejects.

34.

Thus cruell Cain who pious blood first spilt
 Was pursevanted<sup>1</sup> after by his guilt,
 With murderer imbranded on his face
 Kept his condition though he chang'd his place:
 Wand'ring from land to land, from shore to shelf
 His guilty soul nere wandered from itself.

35.

Let them themselves in unknown lands disperse
 Or if they please with canibals converse,
 Like unto like, that all the world may see

<sup>1</sup> Followed as by 'pursuivant.' G.

King-killers and men-eaters do agree :
In no land they'l increase, 'tis nature's love
Unto mankind : all monsters barren prove.

36.

Long live our gracious Charles second to none
In honour, who ere sate upon the throne :
Be you above your ancestors renown'd,
Whose goodness wisely doth your greatness bound ;
And knowing that you may be what you would
Are pleased to be onely what you should.

37.

Europ's great arbitrator, in your choice
Is plac'd of Christendom the casting voice ;
Hold you the scales in your judicious hand
And when the equal beam shall doubtful
    stand,
As you are pleased to dispose one grain,
So falls or riseth either France or Spain.

38.

As Sheba's queen defective fame accus'd
Whose nigardly relations had abus'd
Th' abundant worth of Solomon, and told
Not half of what she after did behold :

The same your case, fame hath not done you right
 Our ears are far out-acted by our sight.

39.

Your self's the ship return'd from forreign trading
 England's your port, experience the lading,
 God is the pilot ; and now richly fraught Unto the port the ship is safely brought :
 What's dear to you is to your subjects cheap
 You sav'd with pain, what we with pleasure reap.

40.

The most renowned Edward the Confessor
 Was both your parallel and predecessor,
 Exil'd he many years did live in France
 —From low foundations highest roofs advance—
 The yolk in youth with patience he bore
 But in his age the crown with honour wore.

41.

The common law, to him, the English owe
 On whom a better gift you will bestow :
 That which he made by you shall be made good
 That prince and people's rights both understood
 Both may be bankt in their respective station ;
 Which dare no fear of future inundation.

42.

Oppression, the king's evil, long indur'd
By others caus'd, by you alone thus cur'd :
God onely have the glory, you the praise
And we the profit by our peaceful dayes,
All forreigners the pattern for their State
To anoy rather than to imitate.

III. 'Verses' prefixed to the Scintilla Altaris of Edward Sparke D.D.<sup>1</sup>

(a) ON THE WORTHY WORK OF MY RESPECTED FRIEND ED. SPARKE D.D.

WHEN pious Asa with his fathers slept How solemnly his funerals they kept!

A curious bed's contriv'd by art's devices

ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΨΙΟΝ vel Scintilla Altaris. Primitive Devotion in the Feasts and Fasts of the Church of England. By Edward Sparke D.D., Chaplain in Ordinary to His Majesty. The sixth edition, Revised by the Author. With Additions upon the Three Grand Solemnities last annexed to the Liturgy: consisting of prose, poems, prayers and sculptures. London, Printed by T. Hodgkin for T. Basset and H. Brome at the George near St Dunstons in Fleet-street and at the Gun at the West-end of St Pauls, 1678, cr. 8vo.

Fuller's step-mother was daughter to Rob. Sparke: 'Coll. Regal. 1557. Rob. Sparke electus scholaris, postea Theol. Bae. Rector de Burbage in comitatu Ley-cestr novercæ meæ (quæ tamen amore verissima mater fuit) clarissimus pater' Fuller's MS. in Jesus College, cited by Baker, M.S. vi. 275. G.

Fill'd all with Indian gums, Arabian spices.
 This bed the case, wherein his corps, the jewel
 Is<sup>1</sup> for the burning<sup>2</sup> made the precious fuel
 As if that Asa's body did aspire
 To meet his soul and mount up in that fire.
 Dead saints dead days now put into their urn:
 See here a sweeter, brighter flame doth burn
 Kindled from Holy SPARKS when<sup>3</sup> doth arise
 No smoak to hurt, save only envious eyes:
 Whilst my admiring Muse at distance stands
 Desiring at his flame to warm her hands;
 Wherewith emboldened nearer she presumes
 To steal a s[c]ent of these thy sweet perfumes.
 But I recant my words and pardon crave
 That I compar'd thy book unto the grave
 Or urn of saints: for by thy pen's perfection
 Saints are not buried but have resurrection.
 The cozening witch in counterfeit disguise
 Made but a seeming Samuel to rise;
 (Whom cunningly she did with mantle hide
 To cloak her cheat, which else might be espide:)
 But who will not thy worthy Work applaud?
 No falshood here, no forgery or fraud;
 Thou really dost from the dust retrieve
 And make not one but all saints to revive.

Yea by the pains which thou on them expends
 Easter doth rise, Ascension-day ascends ;
 Thy poetry is pleasant, pictures fine
 Thy prose profound, but oh the prayers divine !
 Thus hast thou pleased us in every part
 Our fancies, judgments, with our eyes and heart.

(β) ON MY WORTHY FRIEND
 DR SPARKE, HIS LEARNED BOOK.

BROOD of legendary saints of old
 Were<sup>1</sup> hatched in heads both bald and bold :

Some saints in nature ne'r had face or features
 But only were their wild inventors creatures ;
 As mountain-like St Christopher thy glory
 No mole-hill yet of truth in all the story.
 Sure hard his face who told such lies so oft !
 But who believes them sure his head is soft :
 Fiction of saints ne'er coyn'd so great a store
 But faction in our age hath minted more :
 Commend themselves, and there is half their trade ;

Condemn all others, then the saint is made.

But here my friend presents a noble breed
 Of ancient saints, such as were saints indeed :

<sup>1</sup> Misprinted 'where.' G.

And yet these saints in these our iron times
 When piety and learning both were crimes
 Have had their Feasts and Fasts put down outright

And all their days extinct in envious night :
 Only the faithful fairs<sup>1</sup> did them retain :
 Exi'd the Church i' th' town they do remain.
 But O how much doth this thy labour merit
 In these dead days thou put'st a quick'ning spirit :

For us thou writ'st, for us thou tak'st this toy'l,
 To make us see this SPARKE<sup>2</sup> doth spend his oyl,

<sup>2</sup> With reference to Fuller's characteristic and inevitable playing on the name of 'Sparke' it may be allowed me to record here an amusing coincidence that chanced in Scotland and the authenticity of which is beyond doubt—A clergyman (in Scotland) was called upon to administer the ordinance of baptism to the child of a brother-clergyman whose name was 'Sparke,' who had already a very large family, with very short intervals between each.—After the rite it is usual in Scotland—among Presbyterians—to sing one of the versified Psalms or Paraphrases—and on the occasion in question the officiating clergyman selected with unconscious patness and to the excitement of the risibilities of his audience and the consternation of his clerical friend, the 5th Paraphrase, reading out ore rotundo, the second verse—

' AS SPARKS in close succession rise, etc. G.

Live learned pen, converse with men below
 Some forty winters until ages' snow
 Candy thy reverend locks, and make them look
 White as thy soul and paper of thy book:
 But when that bankrupt nature shall deny
 To pay more moisture and when thou must dye.
 Mount gallant soul with saints in bliss survive
 Whose rites thy pen did in sad times retrieve.

VII. In the Church-History<sup>1</sup> and 'Worthies' and indeed into all his books FULLER delights to introduce those bits of biographic fact and character that are found in inscriptions on old brasses and other monuments in old cathedrals and in old, gray Churches and old books. He usually translates them as well as the snatches of Latin verse from 'Collections' of the Universities and the like. Sometimes he does it under protest and sometimes refuses quaintly e.g. on King Lucius's epitaph he says it had nothing in it 'worthy of translation' and then with irrepressible wit goes on 'It seems the puddle-poet did hope that the jingling of his rhyme would drown the sound of his false quantity. Except any will say that he affected to make the middle syllable in idola short, because in the days of King Lucius, idolatry was curb'd and contracted, whilst Christianity did dilate and extend itself.' [C. II. Book I. Cent. III. page 15]. These Verse-Translations make up the remainder of our Collection from Fuller's published Works. Such as are original not translated have a † after the number. With two slight exceptions all the others are from the Latin. The reader is referred to the several places for the Original. In a few cases I give the Latin along with the translation. G.

Wo be to that Priest y-born
 That will not cleanly weed his corn,
     And preach his charge among :
 Wo be to that Shepheard (I say)
 That will not watch his fold alway

 Wo be to him that doth not keep
 From Romish wolves his sheep
     With staffe and weapon strong.

<sup>1</sup> For above, read more accurately Taliesin: and cf. Abp. Ussher's 'Religion anciently professed by the Irish and British (1861) c. X.: Elrington's Ussher Vol. iv. 353. On this Dr S. P. Tregelles writes me as follows:—"Ussher calls the writer Taliessyn, and he uses the lines to 'shew that he wrote after the coming of Austin into England, and not fifty or sixty years before, as others have imagined.' I however should use the contents of the lines, as shewing that Taliesin cannot be the author; and indeed an old Welsh copy ascribes them to 'Jonas the teacher of St Davids' (? 10th century). The later that they are, the more remarkable is the testimony against Rome in the ancient British Church, the origin of which belongs to a time when Ireland and Scotland were still in idolatry." After pointing out mistakes in the Welsh as given by Ussher and Fuller he adds, 'The poem from which the lines incorrectly ascribed to Taliesin are taken, is given in p. 78 col. 2 of the new edition of the Welsh Archæology, now in course of publication at Denbigh.' 7. Victory of Oswald. 'Amongst the many victories atchieved by this Oswald, one most remarkable was gained by him near Hex[h]am in Northumberland, against the Pagans, against whom he erected the standard of the Crosse, in a place which time out of mind was called Heafen-field (Haledon at this day<sup>2</sup>): by a prolepsis, not answering the name thereof until this time. Hence a Poet writing the life of Oswald [says]:—

8. On Oswald.—‘Whereupon Aidan laying hold on Oswald’s right hand (and that alone we know ought to be the almoner [Matthew vi. 3] ‘May this hand’ (said he) ‘never be consumed:’ which is said accordingly to come to passe.’

No worm, no rottennesse taints his right hand:
Corruption-free, in vain the cold doth strive
To freeze, or heat to melt it, which doth stand Still at one stay: and though dead, is alive.

FULLER slyly adds, ‘But it is not enough for us that we have the poet’s pen for it: if we also had Oswald’s hand to shew for the same, much might be wrought on our behalf herein.’

[Book II. Cent. vii. page 82].

9. On ‘Wilfride’s deprivation of the ‘Bishoprick of York’ to which he had been appointed.

Boldly in the husband’s life
Away from him they took his wife.

‘But by the poet’s leave, York was but espoused not married to Wilfride, whilst he was in England: and after his going over beyond Sea, he stayed so long that his Church presumed him dead and herself a maid-widow, which lawfully might receive another husband.'

[Book II. Cent. vii. page 86].

10. Adelme, Bishop of Sherborn. [He] 'was the first of our English nation who wrote in Latine: and the first that taught Englishmen to make Latine verse, according to his promise,

With thirty sucking piggs: that place is 'sign'd
To build your town and ease your wearied mind.

12. Martyrdom of King Edmond: 'After many indignities offered unto him they bound him to a tree, and because he would not renounce his Christianity, shot him with arrow after arrow : their cruelty taking deliberation that he might the better digest one pain before another succeeded, so distinctly to protract his torture (though confusion be better than method in matters of cruelty) till not mercie but want of a mark made them desist : according to the poet's expression [Book II. Cent. ix. page 122].

14. DUNSTAN : 'Eminency occasions envy, which made Dunstan's enemies endeavour to deprese him. He is accused to the king for a magician and upon that account banished the Court. It was brought as evidence against him that he made his harp not onely to have motion but made musick of itself, which no white-art could perform

St Dunstan's harp fast by the wall
 Vpon a pin did hang-a :
 The harp itself, with ly and all
 Vntouch't by hand did twang-a.

For our part let Dunstan's harp hang there still, on a double suspicion twisted together: first, whether this story thereof were true or false: secondly, if true, whether done by magick or miracle. Sure I am, as good a harper and a better saint than Dunstan was, hath no such miracle reported of him, even David himself, who with his harp praised God, pleased men, frightened devils; yet took pains with his own right hand [Psalm 137. 5] to play, not lazily commanding musick by miracle to be made on his instrument.'

[Book II. Cent. x. page 128].

[Strange, quick-witted FULLER did not think of the Æolian harp, wind-played—which doubtless the poor accused saint's instrument was transformed into, accidentally. G.]

15. The good daughter of a bad father:

17. On translations of Scripture 'The Originall preferred :' 'Ricemarch a Britan, a right learned and godly clerk, son to Sulgen, bishop of St David's, flourishing in this age, made this epigram on those who translated the Psalter out of the Greek : so taking it at the second-hand and not drawing it immediately out of the first vessel'—

His voyage<sup>1</sup> steep the easier to climbe up
 Christ's bloud he drank out of Life's healthfull

When? At Christ's birth. Where? Altar of the Lord.

' Here I understand not, how properly it can be said that Becket died pro grege, for his flock. Hee did not die for feeding his flock, for any fundamental point of religion, or for defending his flock against the wolfe of any dangerous doctrine: but meerly he died for his flock: namely, that the sheep thereof (though ever so scabb'd) might not be dress'd with tarr, and other proper (but sharpe and smarting) medicines. I mean that the clergie might not be punished by the secular power, for their criminal enormities.'

[Book III. Cent. xii. page 35].

21. On Henry II.

He whom alive the world would scarce suffice
When dead, in eight foot earth contented lies.

[Book III. Cent. xii. page 40].

22. Hugh Nevil: 'Being one of the king's special familiars, slew a lion in the Holy Land, first driving an arrow into his breast and then running him through with his sword, on whom this verse was made'

Viribus Hugonis vires periêre } The strength of Hugh Leonis. } A lion slew.

[Book III. Cent. xii. page 41].

23. On Richard 'the Lion-hearted': 'I finde two epitaphs made upon him, the first (better for the conceit then the poetry thereof) thus concludeth

Three places thus are sharers of his fall
Too little, one, for such a funeral.

The second may pass for a good piece of poetry in that age.

Richard thou liest here, but were Death afraid
Of any armes, thy armes had Death dismaid.

The Latin merits Fuller's praise.

Hic, Richarde, jaces; sed Mors, si cederet, armis
Victa timore tui, cederet ipsa tuis.

[Book III. Cent. xii. page 46].

24. 'Learned Writers, Bale and Pitts.'
'The column of learned writers I have endeavoured to extract out of Bale and Pitts. Whereof the later being a member of this University was no less diligent then able to advance the honour thereof. Let none suspect that I will enrich my Mother by robbing my Aunt. For besides that Cambridge is so conscientious, she will not be accessory to my felony by receiving stolen goods:’

Tros, Tyriusque mihi nullo discrimine habetur:

A Trojan whether he

Or a Tyrian be

All is the same to me.

[Book III. Cent. xiii. page 68].

25. BACONTHORPE: ‘I [FULLER] had almost over-seen John Baconthorpe being so low in stature as but one remove from a dwarfe, of whom one saith

His wit was tall, in body small

Insomuch that corpus non tulisset quod ingenium protulit, his body could not bear the books which his brain had brought forth.’

[Book III. Cent. xiv. page 97].

26. William Occam: [He] ‘sided with Lewis of Bavaria against the Pope, maintaining the temporal power above the spiritual; he was fain to flie to the emperor for his safety, saying unto him

Defende me gladio et ego te defendam verbo Defend me with thy sword and I will defend thee with my word.

[Book III. Cent. xiv. page 98].

27. Edward for 'protection of his native subjects.'

He made a statute for Lombards in this Land,
 That they should in no wise take on hand
 Here to inhabit, here to charge and discharge,
 But forty dayes no more time had they large :
 This good king by wit of such appreife
 Kept his merchants and the sea from mischief.

[Book III. Cent. xiv. page 113].

28. Rebellion of Wat Tyler and Jack Straw: 'As the Philistines [1 Samuel xiii. 17] 'came out in three companies' to destroy all the swords and smiths in Israel: so this rabble of rebels, making itself tripartite, endeavoured the rooting out of all pen-knives and all appearance of learning. One in Kent, under the aforesaid Wat and John: the second in Suffolk; the third under John Littstarre a dier in Norfolke. The former of these is described in the Latin verses of John Gower, prince of poets in his time: of whom we will bestow the following translation.'

Tom comes, thereat, when call'd by Wat, and Simm as forward we finde, Bet calls as quick to Gibb and to Hykk, that neither would tarry behinde.
 Gibb, a good whelp of that litter, doth help mad
 Coll more mischief to do,
 And Will he doth vow, the time is come now,
 he'l joyn with their company too.
 Davie complains, whiles Grigg gets the gaines,
 and Hobb with them doth partake,
 Lorkin aloud, in the midst of the croud, con-ceiveth as deep is his stake.
 Hudde doth spoil, whom Judde doth foile, and Tebb lends his helping hand,
 But Jack, the mad patch, men and houses<sup>1</sup> doth snatch, and kills all at his command.

[Book IV. Cent. xiv. page 139].

29. Simon Sudbury : 'John Gower telleth us in his paralel of the martyring of Simon Sudbury, arch-bishop of Canterbury with Thomas
 Becket, his predecessor'

But four conspir'd, Thomas, his blood to spill
 While hundred thousands Simon help to kill.

[Book IV. Cent. xiv. page 140].

<sup>1</sup> Qu: 'horses?' the Latin however is 'domos.' G.

30. Chaucer : ‘ Our Homer : onely herein he differed

Mæonides nullas ipse reliquit opes.
Homer himself did leave no pelf, whereas our Chaucer left behinde him a rich and worshipful estate.’

[Book IV. Cent. xiv. page 151].

31. Chaucer :

Of Alger Dants, Florence doth justly boast
Of Petrarch brags all the Italian coast.
England doth poet Chaucer reverence
To whom our language owes its eloquence.

‘ He was a great refiner and illuminer of our English tongue (and if he left it so bad, how much worse did he finde it?)’

[Book IV. Cent. xiv. page 152].

[‘ Alger Dants’ [= Dante] renders Leland’s.
Prædicat Algerum merito Florentia Dantem. G.]

32. ‘ Eton and Grammer Learning.’—‘ Indeed it was high time some School should be founded, considering how low grammer-learning ran then in the Land, as may appear by the following verses made for King Henry the Founder :

as good no doubt as the generality of that age did afford, though (scarcely deserving translation) so, that the worst scholar in Eaton Colledge that can make a verse can make a better'—

Devout King Henry, of that name the sixth
 Born (Nic'las) on thy day, this building fixt.
 In Eaton having plac'd a stone anointed
 In sign, it for the elergy was appointed.
 His prelates then were present, so the more
 To honour the King's acts, and holy chore.
 From Eastern midst, whereof just fourteen feet
 If any measure, they this stone shall meet ;
 Our holy James, his day, the sacred hand
 Of royal Henry caus'd this stone to stand.

M. four C.'s, forty six, since Christ was born
 When H. the crown twenty-five years had worn.

[Book IV. Cent. xv. page 183].

33. Retribution :

Most just it is that they bad laws who make Should themselves first of their own laws partake.

‘Thus those who break down the banks and let in the stream of arbitrary power (be it into the hands of prince or people) are commonly the first themselves which without pity are drowned in the deluge thereof.'

[Book V. Cent. xvi. page 234].

34. The Jesuits: 'They had two most antient and flourishing convents beyond the seas; Nola in Italy as I take it, where their home it seems gives a bow for their armes, and La-Fletcha in France, where they have an arrow for their device: whereupon a satyriical wit thus guirded at them: and I hope I shall not be condemned as accessory to his virulency, if onely plainly translating the same.'

Nola to them did give a Bow

La-Fletch an Arrow bring:

But who upon them will bestow

(What they deserve)—a string?

[Book VI. page 279].

35. Feasts of Ely Abbey.

When other Feasts before have been

If those of Elic last be seen,

'Tis like to one who hath seen night

And then beholds the day so bright.

[Book VI. page 299].

26. Bells: 'Such frequent firing of Abbey-Churches by lightning, confuteth the proud motto commonly written on the bells in their steeples, wherein each bell intituled itself to a sixfold efficacie :'

- |                                |   |  |
|--------------------------------|---|--|
| 1. Funera plango               | } | Men's deaths I tellBy doleful knell. |

| 4. Excito lentos               |   |  |
| 5. Dissipo ventos.             | } | The winds so fierceI doe disperse.   |
| 6. Paco cruentos.              |   |  |

[Book VI. page 301]. [Might have been a first (faint) sketch of Poe's memorable 'Bells.' G.]

37. Marshes of Mantua [Virgil].

There is no trusting to the found'ring bank
The ramme still dries his fleccc so lately dank.

[Book VI. page 323].

38. John Leland to Henry VIII.

The sun shall sooner cease his shine to show
 And moon deny her lamp to men below ;
 The rapid seas shall sooner fishless slide,
 And bushes quite forget their birds to hide ;
 Great okes shall sooner cease to spread their bowers
 And Flora for to paint the meads with flowers,
 Than thou great King shall slip out of my breast
 My studies' gentle gale and quiet rest.

[Book VI. page 339].

39. Against 'the Masse.' — Of all his [JEWELL'S] pupils, Edward Year (so I conceive his name whom Lawrence Humphery in Jewel's life pp. 77 calls Edvardum Annum) in this one respect was most remarkable, who by his tutor being seasoned with the love of the truth, made a double copie of verses against the superstition of the Masse, which so enraged Mr Welsh, the Censor as I take it, of Corpus Christi Colledge, against him, that he publikely and cruelly whipt him, laying on one lash, for every verse he had made, which I conceive was about eighty in all. Part of them I have here thought fit to insert ;

and blessed be God I may translate, and the reader peruse them, without any pain and perill, and not at the dear rate, whereat the Author composed them. I have the rather printed them because they proved as well prophetical as poetical, completely foretelling what afterwards came to pass.'

Accept O heavenly Father I request

These few devotions from my humble breast :
See their's accesse, Heaven's gate open lyes,

Then with my prayers I'll penetrate the skies ;
Great God, who all things seest, doth all things sway,

And all things giv'st, and all things tak'st away,

Let not the present Masse long-livèd be,

Nor let it those beguile belong to Thee :
Thy people's eyes, keep it from blinding quite,
Since to Thy word it is so opposite,
But send it to the Stygian Lakes below :

From whence it's rise and source doth spring and flow.

The Lord, beholding from His Throne reply'd, Doubt not, young youth, firmly in Me confide.

I dy'd long since, now sit at the right hand
Of my bless'd Father, and the world command :

My body wholly dwels in heavenly light
 Of whom no earthly eye can gain a sight :
 The shamelesse priests, of Me forge trutheslesse lies
 And he that worships Masse, my Word
 denyes :

A stiffneck'd people for their sins did make Me send them Masse, my Word away to take ;
 But trust me, Scripture shall regain her sway
 And wicked Masse in due time fade away.'
 [Book VIII. Cent. xvi. page 9].

40. Dr Hugh Price: 'The said doctor in scribed these following verses over the gate, when the building of the Colledge [Jesus, Oxford] was but begun :

Hugh Price this palace did to Jesus build
 That a Law's doctor learned men might yield.

But an Oxford author telleth us that a satyirical pen did under-write with wit and wagary enough,
 these following verses :

Hugh hath not built it yet ; may it be said
 He built it who hath scarce the ground-work laid?
 [Book IX. Cent. xvi. page 97].

41. Cox, bishop of Ely: 'He was an excellent poet, though the verses written on his own tomb, are none of the best, and scarce worth our translating.'

Frail life farewell, welcome life without end,
 Earth hides my corps, my soull doth heaven ascend ;
 Christ's cock on earth, I chanted Christ his name,
 Grant without end in heaven I sound the same.

[The 'gallus' = cock, it is presumed was intended as a play on his own name of Cox. G.]

[Book IX. Cent. xvi. page 111].

42. Verses by Mary Queen of Scots 'on a pane of glass at Buxton well.'

Buxton who dost with waters warme excell
 By me, perchance, never more seen, farewell.

'and at Fotheringhay Castle I have read written by her on a window, with a pointed diamond'

From the top of all my trust
 Mishap hath laid me in the dust
 [Book IX. Cent. xvi. page 181].

43. Epitaph on 'Mr Luke Chaloner:' in 'Dublin Colledge Chappel.'

This tomb within it, here contains
Of Chaloner the sad remains.
By whose prayer and helping hand
This house erected here doth stand.
[Book IX. Cent. xvi. page 212].

44. Humphrey Eli:

Wonder not, England's dark with errours night
For loe here buried lies her sun so bright.
[Book X. Cent. xvii. page 34].

45. Gunpowder Plot:

Oh let that day be quite dash'd out of time
And not believ'd by the next generation:
In night of silence we'll conceal the crime,
Thereby to save the credit of our nation.
[Book X. Cent. xvii. page 38].

[FULLER has fine-spirited words on this 'hyperbolic rapture' in the context. G.]

46. The Brothers Rainolds:

What war is this! when conquered both are glad
And either to have conquered other, sad.
[Book X. Cent. xvii. page 48].

[I may be allowed to refer to my Memoir of Dr John Rainolds prefixed to reprint of his Commentaries on Obadiah and Haggai. G.]

47. 'Intended Colledge.' — 'The untimely death of Prince Henry, our principal hope and the author of this designe' frustrated it:'

The modest Colledge blushèd to be stronger
Than was its lord: he died, it liv'd no longer.

[A rendering of

Erubuit Domino firmius esse suo. G.]

[Book X. Cent. xvii. page 53].

48. PRINCE HENRY: 'He was generally lamented of the whole Land, both Universities publishing their verses in print: and give me leave to remember four made by Giles Fletcher of Trinity Colledge in Cambridge, on this Prince's plain grave, because wanting an inscription: and it will be honour enough to me if I can make thereof a translation:

If wise, amaz'd depart this holy grave:
Nor these new ashes ask, what names they have?
The graver, in concealing them was wise:
For who-so knows, strait melts in tears and dies.

[Book X. Cent. xvii. page 67].

49. The famous, 'Conference.' 'Some are of opinion that the moderation and mutuall compliance of these Divines might have produced much good, if not interrupted, conceiving such lopping might have saved the felling of Episcopacy. Yea they are confident had this expedient been pursued and perfected,'

Troy still had stood in power :
 And king Priam's lofty tower
 Had remainèd at this hower.

It might under God have been a means not only to have checkt but chockt our Civil War in the infancy thereof.'

[Book XI. Cent. xvii. page 175].

VIII. From History of University of Cambridge.<sup>1</sup>

1. Cambridge :

Cambridge devoted to the Muses nine
 By learned Henries piety doth shine
 With learned men, which languages refine.

 Conquest. 1655' folio.

2. Humphrey Necton :

Above the skies let's Humphrey Necton praise :
 For on him, first, Cambridge, confer'd the bayes :
 ' that is, made him Doctor in Divinity' [Page 20].

3. Henry and Charles Brandon, Dukes of Suffolk : ' They were much bemoaned, the University printing a book on their funeralls, amongst which these following of Dr Parkhurst's, afterwards Bishop of Norwich, I shall endeavour to translate.'

Castor and Pollux, brothers pair
 Breathing first Amicle's air,
 Did with Death so bargaine make
 By exchange their turns to take.
 If that Death surprized one brother,
 Still alive should be the other.
 So the bargain was contriv'd
 Both dy'd, both by turns surviv'd.
 Why is fate more cruel grown
 Than she formerly was known ?
 Wee of brothers had a brace
 Like to which did never grace
 This our English earth before,
 Nor the like shall grace it more.
 Both bright stars, and both did stand
 Hopefull bulwarks of the Land.

Both, alas ! together slain
 Death at once did murder twaine.
 Nothing could their vertues move
 Nor King Edward's hearty love.
 Nor that best of mother's mones
 Nor all Britaine's heavy grones.
 Nothing could stern Death abate ;

Oh cruel, over-cruel fate ! [Page 128].

[Charles died within 'twelve hours, of the same disease' with Henry. G].

IX. From Pisgah-Sight of Palestine.<sup>1</sup>

(a) From the letter-press.

1. Wine of Palestine : 'Nor were their grapes less good than great, as a poet [Sidonius]—the most competent judge of the matter in hand—doth bear witness,'

I have no Gaza, Chios, Falern wine
 Nor any flowing from Sarepta's vine.

<sup>1</sup> 'A Pisgah-Sight of Palestine and the Confines thereof: with the History of the Old and New Testament acted thereon. By Thomas Fuller B.D. London 1662' folio.

*,* It has escaped all his Biographers, that Fuller—like Samuel Ward—was also a designer and engraver (or etcher) as 'T. Fuller, scilicet,' shews, in some of the illustrations of this volume. See specially, the spirited series, Book 4. c. vi. page 97. G.

Thus making a quadripartite division of good wine, two members thereof, that of Gaza and Sarepta, the one falls in the tribe of Simeon, the other of Asher, both in the country of Palestine.' [Page 10].

2. Libanus' Yews: 'The poet [Virgil] takes notice of the plenty of yew in this province

Yew which in Ituria grows
Is neatly bended into bows.

Hence their inhabitants became excellent archers: and pity it was that their arrows were so often shot at a wrong mark—to kill and rob passengers in their journey.' [Page 104].

3. Dagon:

Upwards man-like he ascended
Downwards like a fish he ended.

4. Semiramis and the doves: 'Near to this city [Askelon] there was a lake, by which Semiramis is said to be born, there fed and relieved by doves. Hence the poet Tibullus 'Alba Palestino sancta columba Syro.'

The milk-white dove esteemed divine
By Syrians of Palestine. [Page 235].

5. Levite's concubine: [Judges xix.] 'Oh ! the justice of Divine proceedings ! She had formerly been false to her husband 'Culpa libido fuit, pœna libido fuit.'

By lust she sinnèd and 'twas just
She should be punishèd by lust. [Page 257].

6. Sepulchres: The 'heathen used in like manner to interr their dead in high-ways : yea their sepulchres served to measure the distances of places' [Virgil Ecl : 9].

Hence ev'n mid-way it is for us : for near,
Bianor's tomb beginneth to appear. [Page 298].

7. Tabernacle and Temple :

Their faces neither diverse nor the same
But such as sisters very well became.

'The latter being none other than the imitation of the former with proportionable addition : as indeed what is the Tabernacle of Grace but the Temple of Glory contracted or the Temple of Glory but the Tabernacle of Grace dilated' [Page 358].

8. Giants: Diomedes and Aeneas: Aeneas and Turnus:

A stone he snatch'd and threw, a stone indeed
 So huge, so heavy, two men now had need
 To heave it up, such dwarfs our days do breed.—
 [Page 363].

9. Horses in sacrifice to the sun: 'The Persians offered horses unto the Sun and Ovid renders some reason thereof'

Horses to the beamèd sun's the Persian's gift:
 Slow sacrifice ill fits a God so swift. [Page 386].

10. Dew [Genesis xxvii. 39.] 'Behold thy dwelling shall be the fatness of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above.' Earth is by Isaac first mentioned because by Esau most minded. But oh the difference betwixt the dew of heaven in Jacob's and Esau's blessing! [Genesis xxvii. 28]. In the former it signified God's favour with an undoubted right unto and sanctified use of, Divine promises, service and Sacraments: whereas in this blessing of Esau, heavenly dew, was in effect but earthly dew, temporall, terrestrial fertility, allowed to this mountainous land of Edom, whose lean hills were larded with many fruitful vallies interposed. Heathen authors confess [Statius]

Whatever noble worth destils
On Pontus nut-trees, or what fils
The fruitful Idumean hills.

11. Egypt.

A Land content with home-bred ware
For foreign wealth she doth not care,
Or whether heavens do frown or smile,
Her confidence is all in Nile.

[Lucan l. 8]. [Page 81 : Book 4. c. 5.]

12. Mock-tears : [Jeremiah ix. 17, 18].

Thy tears were trusted : do they falshood know?
Yea they have tricks, at will they come and go.

[Ovid.]

‘ But as parents when their children cry for nothing, use to beat them that they might cry for something: so God threatned that the miseries of Jerusalem should afterwards turn their faigned and strained wailings into sound and sincere sorrow : when those tears — formerly but the adopted children—should become the natural issue of their heavy hearts.’ [Page 118. Book 4. c. 6.]

13. Idols: 'In all ages some were found who flouted at such superstitions: amongst these the poet brings in an idol thus speaking,'

Time out of minde a fig-tree stock I grew,
An useless block, before the workmen knew
Benches or gods to make me—smal the ods—
Resolv'd at last of me to make his gods.

[Page 126. Book 4 c. 7.]

14. Idol-calf: [Virgil].

My calfe I lay—lest you mislike't, both tides
She comes to th' pale [pail] and suckles twain
besides. [Page 129 : Book 4 c. 7.]

X. From 'the Holy Warre'<sup>1</sup>

1. Issues:

May he never speed
 Who from the issue censures of the deed.

<sup>1</sup> 'The Historie of the Holy Warre: By Thomas Fuller, B.D. . . . Cambridge 1651' folio. By the kindness of its possessor—Mr Winters, Church-yard, Waltham Abbey,—the following MS. lines written in a copy of the 'Holy Warre' by some contemporary and admirer of our Worthy, are herewith subjoined: more accurately than as given in Notes and Queries [3d Series: 2d half 1867 p. 226]. Who was R. II.? G.

ON THE TITLE AND AUTHOR;

Shall warr, the ofspring of rebellious pryde disturber of heuens peace, be glorified with a sacred epithite? tis a iarr, that it should haue the tearme of Holy warr;
 It is not surely meant the very thing is holy, but the holy cause doth bring

‘ Though an argument fetch’t from the successe is but a cyphre in itself yet it increaseth a number when joyned with others.’

[Page 16 :B. i. c. 10.]

2. Baldwine: ‘ For the rest we referre the reader to the dull epitaph written on his tombe, which (like the verses of that age) runneth in a kind of rhythme, though it can scarce stand on true feet :’

Baldwine another Maccabee for might Hope, help of State, of Church, and both’s delight :

Cedar, with Egypt’s Dan of him afraid,
Bloody Damascus to him tribute paid :
Alas ! here in this tombe is laid.

[Page 62 : B. II. c. 13.]

a holy stile to a destructive game ;
A Turk may haue an honorable name :
Yet warr is not unlawfull, though it kill ;
the Circumstance doth make it good or ill ;
But howso’er the cause or matter bee,
thy pithie lynes, and witt doe render thee let pryde and envie strugle what they can,
Fuller, the holy, wise, and learned man.

R: II:

3.† Alexius the Grecian emperour: ‘We had almost forgotten what happened in this yeare—the death of Alexius, the Grecian emperour, that arch-hypocrite and grand enemy of this warre. On whom we may bestow this epitaph :

If he of men the best doth know to live
 Who best knows to dissemble, justly then
 To thee, Alexius, we this praise must give,
 That thou to live didst know the best of men.
 And this was it at last did stop thy breath
 Thou knew’st not how to counterfeit with Death. [Page 64 : B. II. c. 14.]

4. Lamentable death of King Fulk : ‘He was slain in earnest as following his sport in hunting, to the great grief of his subjects. And we may heare him thus speaking his epitaph :

A hare I hunted, and Death hunted me ;
 The more my speed was, was the worse my
 speed :
 For as well-mounted I away did flee, Death caught and kill’d me, falling from my steed.
 Yet this mishap an happie misse I count
 That fell from horse that I to heaven might mount. [Page 74 : B. ii. c. 23.]

5. Frederick, the worthy emperour : ‘ We may heare his sorrowful army speaking thus his epitaph unto him ’

Earth scarce did yeeld ground enough for thy sword

To conquer : how then could a brook afford
 Water to drown thee ? brook, which some doth fear

(O guilty conscience !) in a map t’ appear.
 Yet blame we not the brook, but rather think
 The weight of our own sinnes did make thee sink.

Now sith ’tis so, wee’l fetch a brackish main
 Out of our eyes, and drown thee once again.

6.† Conraide : ‘ This may serve for his epitaph
 The crown I never did enjoy alone ;
 Of half a kingdome I was half a king.
 Scarce was I on when I was off the throne ;
 Slain by two slaves, me basely murdering.

And thus the best man’s life at mercie lies
 Of vilest varlets that their own despise.

[Page 125 : B. III. c. 10.]

7. King Guy: 'We then dismissee King Guy, hearing him thus taking his farewell'

I steer'd a State warre-tost against my will:
Blame then the storm, not th' pilot's want of skill,
That I the kingdome lost, whose empty style
I sold to England's king for Cyprus isle.
I pass'd away the Land I could not hold;
Good ground I bought, but only aire I sold.
Then as a happy merchant may I sing
Though I must sigh as an unhappy king.

[Page 126 : B. III. c. 10.]

8. 'King Richard taken prisoner in Austria:
sold and sent to the emperour: dearly ransomed, returneth home'—'After this money, Peter of Bloys (who had drunk as deep of Helicon as any of that age) sendeth this good prayer: making an apostrophe to the emperour or to the Duke of Austria or to both together'

And now, thou basest avarice
Drink till thy belly burst, Whil'st England poures large silver showres
To satiate thy thirst.

And this we pray, Thy money may
And thou be like accurst.

9. French-rhyme: Crusades.

Jesus Lord ! repair our losse ;
Restore to us thy holy crosse.

10. 'The pastorells killed in France:' 'A rhymer of that age (or in courtesie call him a poet,) made this epitaph on them :

Learn to put together well
What M. C. C. L. I. do spell ;
When some devilish fiend in France
Did teach the Shepherds how to dance.

XI. From 'the Holy State'<sup>1</sup>

1. The Elder Brother: 'He rather desires his father's life than his living. This was one of the principal reasons (but God knows how true) why

Philip the second, king of Spain, caused in the year 1568, Charles, his eldest son to be executed for plotting his father's death, as was pretended. And a wit [Opmerus (?)] in such difficult toys accommodated the numeral letters in Ovid's verse to the year wherein the Prince suffered.

FILIVS ante DIem patrios InqVIRIt In annos 1568.

Before the tIME the oVer-hasty sonne
Seeks forth hoVV near the father's LIfe Is Done.
[B. I. c. 14. page 41.]
1568.

2. The younger brother: 'To use the herald's language, he may say'

This to my elder brother I must yield
I have the charge but he hath all the field.
[B. I. c. 15. p. 42.]

3. Julius Scaliger: 'His skill in physick was as great as his practice therein was happy: in so much that he did many strange and admirable cures. Hear how a noble and learned pen [Stephanus Boetius] doth commend him'

On snowy Caucasus there grew no root
Of secret power, but he was privy to't;

On cold Riphean hills no simple grew,
 But he the force thereof and virtue knew :
 Wherewith—apply'd by his successful art—
 Such sullen souls as would this world depart,
 He forc't still in their bodies to remain
 And from death's door fetch'd others back again.

[B. II. c. 8 page 71.]

4. The faithful minister: 'He counts the success of his ministry the greatest preferment. Yet herein God hath humbled many painful pastours, in making them to be clouds, to rain not over Arabia the happy but over the stony or desert: so that they may complain with the herdsman in the poet

My starveling bull
 Ah ! woe is me !
 In pasture full
 How lean is he !

[B. II. c. 9 page 77.]

5. William Perkins: 'He was of a ruddy complexion, very fat and corpulent, lame of his right hand: and yet this Ehud with a left-handed pen did shake the Romish cause and as one [Holland] saith

Though nature thee of thy right hand bereft Right well thou writest with the hand that's left.

[The Latin may interest :

Dextera quantumvis fuerat tibi manca, docendi
 Pollebas mira dexteritate tamen. G.]

6. Simony: 'We confess it a personal vice amongst us, but not to be charged as a Church-sin : which by penal laws it doth both prohibit and punish. Did Rome herein look upon the dust behind her own doors, she would have but little cause to call her neighbour slut. What saith the epigram ?

That Peter was at Rome, there's strife about it
 That Simon was there, none ever did doubt it.

[The Latin is as follows :

An Petrus fuerat Romæ, sub iudice lis est
 Simonem Romæ nemo fuisse negat. G.]

[B. II. c. 12. page 88.]

7. The good patron : 'Afterwards, to invite lay-men to build and endow Churches, the Bishops departed with their right, to the lay-patrons, according to the verse

A patron's he that did endow with lands
Or built the Church or on whose ground it stands.

it being conceived reasonable that he who paid the Church's portion should have the main stroke in providing her an husband.' [B. II. c. 12. page 87.]

8. Hope disappointed: 'Daily experience tenders too many examples. A gentleman who gave a basilisk for his arms or crest, promised to make a young kinsman of his, his heir, which kinsman to ingratiate himself painted a basilisk in his study and beneath it these verses'

Falleris aspectu basiliscum occidere, Plini
Nam vitæ nostræ spem basiliscus alit

The basilisk's the onely stay
My life preserving still ;
Pliny, thou h'dst when thou didst say
The basilisk doth kill.

But this rich gentleman dying, frustrated his expectation and bequeathed all his estate to another, whereupon the epigram was thus altered.

Certe aluit, sed spe vana, spes vana venenum :
 Ignoscas, Plini, verus es historicus.
 Indeed vain hopes to me he gave,
 Whence I my poison drew :
 Pliny, thy pardon now I crave
 Thy writings are too true.

[B. III. c. 9. page 161.]

9. Tombes: 'Tis a provident way to make one's tombe in one's lifetime, both hereby to prevent the negligence of heirs and to mind him of his mortality. Virgil tells us that when bees swarm in the aire and two armies meeting together, fight as it were a set battel with great violence, cast but a little dust upon them and they will be quiet.'

These stirrings of their minds, and strivings vast
 If but a little dust on them be cast
 Are straitwayes stinted and quite over-past.

Thus the most ambitious motions and thoughts of man's mind are quickly quell'd when dust is thrown on him, whereof his fore-prepared sepulchre is an excellent remembrancer.

[B. III. c. 14. page 175.]

10. The same : ‘ Thus love if not to the dead, to the living, will make him if not a grave, a hole :
and it was the begger’s epitaph Nudus eram vivus, mortuus ecce tegor.

Naked I liv’d, but being dead

Now behold I’am coverèd.

[B. III. c. 14. page 177.]

11.† Finis : ‘ When one had set out a witless pamphlet, writing Finis at the end thereof, another wittily wrote beneath it

— Nay there thou li’st my friend

In writing foolish books there is no end.

[B. III. c. 18. page 187.]

[The ‘ another’ was doubtless Fuller himself. G.].

12. Moderation :

Both ends o’ th’ table furnish’d are with meat

Whilst they in middle nothing had to eat.

They were none of the wisest well I wist

Who made bliss in the middle to consist.

[B. III. c. 20. page 202.]

13. Gravitie: 'That may be done privately without breach of gravity, which may not be done publickly. As when a father makes himself his child's rattle, sporting with him till the father hath devoured the wise man in him, Equitans in arundine longa.

Instead of stately steed

Riding upon a reed.

[B. III. c. 21 page 205.]

14. 'Grand' Churches :

The Church did blush more glory for to have Then had her Lord. He begg'd : should she be brave. [B. III. c. 24. page 217.]

15. The good Bishop : 'In his grave writings he aims at God's glory and the Church's peace, with that worthy prelate, the second Jewel of Salisbury, whose comments and controversies will transmit his memory to all posterity :

Whose dying pen did write of Christian Union

How Church with Church might safely keep Communion.

Commend his care, although the cure do misse :
The woe is ours, the happinesse is his :

Who finding discords daily to encrease
Because he could not live would dy, in peace.

[B. IV. c. 9. page 270.]

[Davenant is referred to : his mother was sister of Fuller's. G.]

16. Augustine : 'His diet was very cleanly and sparing, yet hospitable in the entertaining of others : and had this distich wrote on his table'

He that doth love an absent friend to jeer
May hence depart, no room is for him here.

[B. IV. c. 10. page 275.]

17. Ridley and Hooper : 'In like manner, not much before, his [Ridley] dear friend, Master Hooper suffered with great torment : the wind (which too often is the bellows of great fires) blowing it away from him once or twice. Of all the martyrs in those days, these two endured most pain, it being true that each of them querebat in ignibus ignes :'

And still he did desire
For fire in midd'st of fire

both desiring to burn and yet both their upper parts were but confessours when their lower parts were martyrs and burnt to ashes.'

[B. IV. c. 11. page 283.]

18. Lady Jane Grey:

What eyes thou readst with Reader, know I not:
Mine were not dry when I this story wrote.

[B. IV. c. 14. page 298.]

19. Queen Elizabeth and the Spanish Embassadour: 'Nor was her poetick vein less happy in Latine. When a little before the Spanish invasion in '88, the Spanish embassadour (after a larger representation in his master's demands) had summed up the effect thereof in a tetrastich, who instantly in one verse rejoyned her answer. We will presume to English both, though confessing the Latine loseth lustre by the translation.'

These to you are our commands,
Send no help to th' Netherlands:
Of the treasure took by Drake
Restitution you must make:
And those abbies built anew
Which your father overthrew:
If for any peace you hope
In all points restore the Pope.

The Queen's extempore return :

Ad Grecas, bone rex, fiant mandata calendas

Worthy king, know this your will

At latter Lammas wee'l fulfil.

[B. IV. c. 15. page 303.]

20. Gustarus Adolphus: 'I find a most learned pen [Hakewill] apply these Latin verses to this noble prince : and it is honour enough for us to translate them'

More then a Priest he in the Church might pass.

More then a Prince in Commonwealth he was.

More then a Counsellor in points of State.

More then a Lawyer matters to bebate.

More then a General to command outright.

More then a Souldier to perform a fight.

More then a man to bear affliction strong.

More then a man good to forgive a wrong.

More then a Patriot countrey to defend.

True friendship to maintain, more then a Friend.

More then familiar sweetly to converse.

And though in sports more then a lion fierce ;

To hunt and kill the game ; yet be exprest

More then Philosopher in all the rest.

[B. IV. c. 18. page 321.]

21. Heir-apparent :

His worth above his wealth appears
 And vertues go beyond his years.
 [B. IV. c. 19. page 322.]

XI. From the Profane State.<sup>1</sup>

1. The harlot : ‘ Besides by many wicked devices she seeks on purpose to make herself barren’ . . .

Which wicked projects first from hell did flow,
 And thither let the same in silence go,
 Best known of them who did them never know.
 [B. V. c. 1. page 345.]

2. Joan of Arc :

Cruelty to a woman
 Brings honour unto no man.

‘ We will close the different opinions which several Authours had of her, with this epitaph :’

Here lies Joan of Arc, the which Some count saint and some count witch ;

<sup>1</sup> ‘ The Profane State. By Thomas Fuller B.D. and Prebendary of Sarum. London 1663.’ folio.

Some count man and something more ;
 Some count maid and some a whore ;
 Her life's in question, wrong or right :
 Her death's in doubt, by laws or might
 Oh innocence take heed of it
 How thou too near to guilt dost sit.
 (Meantime France a wonder said
 A woman rule 'gainst Salique law)
 But, reader, be content to stay
 Thy censure till the Judgment-day :
 Then shalt thou know and not before
 Whether saint, witch, man, maid or whore.

[B. V. c. 5. pp. 363, 364.]

3. Atheist :

On earth were atheists many
 In hell there is not any.

[B. v. c. 7. page 368.]

4. Jehu :

Three weaklings we, a wife for war too mild
 Laertes old, Telemachus a child.

So thrice a year should Jehu onely be king over such an impotent company of old men, women and children.' [B. V. c. 9. page 377.]

5. † Abolition of Universities:

Which we believe and wish may then be done
When all blear eyes have quite put out the sun.

[B. V. c. 11. page 387.] <sup>1</sup>

6. The Liar:

When Jesuits unto us answer, Nay
They do not English speak, 'tis Greek they say.

[B. V. c. 12. page 390.]

XII. From 'Abel Redevivus.' <sup>2</sup>

1. BERENGARIUS: [of Tours: Born (probably

<sup>1</sup> Fuller's authority for his preposterous accusation in the context, of Greenwood and Barrow is 'Dr Soame's writing against them: lib. 2. page 4. But as against Soames see 'A True Relation of Two Merchants of London, who were taken Prisoners by the Cavaliers, and of the barbarous cruelty inflicted on them: together with the great familiarity of Dr Soames, Vicar of Staynes with the Cavaliers and of their familiarities with his daughters 1642. [4°]. G.

in 1020) Died January 6th 1088. G.] ‘ We leave him to stand or fall to his owne Master, according to that concluding disticke, which we find in an author :’

Cùm nihil ipse vides propriâ quin labe laboret
Tu tua fac cures, cætera mitte Deo.

‘Seeing nought thou seest but faults are in the best Looke thou unto thyselfe, leave God the rest.’

[Pp. 7, 8.]

Most worthily may this Divine
Old Berengarius, fairely shine
Within this skie of lustrious starres
Who’gainst Rome’s errorours fought Truth’s warres:
Confuting, with high approbation
Rome’s figment, Transubstantiation ;
Which did that hierarchie so vex
And with such passion so perplex
That they would never give him rest
But did his soule so much molest,
That at the last, by fraud and force
They made him—with most sad remorse—
Two several times his cause recant ;
Him of his crown thus to supplant.
Thus, O, thus, oft, Sol’s rayes most rare
With duskie clouds eclipsèd are.

2. JOHN HUSS: [Reformer and Martyr :
Born 1376 (?) : Died July 7th 1415. G.]

This most illustrious lamp of Gospel light
Which in Bohemia first shon forth most bright
By this renownèd martyres industry,—
Heavenly, heroick Huss, yet furiously
Affronted was by Papall enemies.

But in the midst of this their rage, did rise
Among themselves, a mighty schisme and rent
Three anti-popes at once : by which event
Renownèd Huss did great advantage gain,
The Gospel's light to propagate, maintain.

But, at the last, that schism being sew'd-up
Againe they fill their wrath's and rage's cup ;
And gave it Huss to drink, who valiantly
Drank-up the same, to death's extremity :
And though they painted-devils placed on his head <sup>1</sup>

Yet he their scorn and rage did nothing dread.
Thus, faithlesse Rome, breaking her promise given,
In fiery-chariot sent his soul to heaven.

[Page 20.]

---

<sup>1</sup> 'A paper, whereon devils were anticly [= grotesquely] painted, was put upon him; he wearing those shadows on his head, whose substance his enemies felt in their heart.' F.

3. JEROME OF PRAGUE : [Reformer and Martyr : Born 1378 (?) : Died May 30th 1416. G.]

This brave Bohemian worthy may, indeed
 His brother Huss most worthily succeed ;
 And, as two twins, for their heroic spirit,
 The one the other's honour may inherit.
 For by John Huss, Jerome was blestly ayded,
 Where by the Romish-rout he was invaded :
 And Jerome, hearing Huss was wrong'd by Rome
 To vindicate his quarrell did presume ;
 But, in the tryal, found his heeles tript up
 Fearfull (by Romish rage) to taste his cup.
 Yet, at the last, that tempting blast ore blown
 His doubled and redoubled zeal was shown ;
 Stoutly recanting his forced recantation,
 To th' death he hated Rome's abomination.
 Which did their Romish furie so inflame,
 That, torturing him, they tygers fierce became :
 His head (like Huss) with painted divels array'd
 His soule to heaven outrageous flames convay'd.

4. CRANMER [Reformer and Martyr : Born 1489 : Died March 21, 1556. G.]

"Twas not inticing honour could remove
 The constant heart of Cranmer from the love
 Of sound divinity ; he alwayes stood

Firme to God's cause, and dy'd it with his blood.
 A true seraphicke and tyrannicke fire
 Proved—as it were—ambitious to aspire :
 And both prevail'd, being willing to controule ;
 Th' one burnt his body, th' other cured his soule.
 Image-adoring Papists, boast your fils ;
 Ye sent a soul to heaven against your wils.
 What can ye say, but this,—your rage was spent ;
 Ye did him good, though with an ill intent ?
 Pricke up your eares and heare this fatall tone,
 Those fires which made him screeke, will make you gron. [Page 228.]

5. JOHN FOX or FOXE [‘ Martyrologist :’ Born
 1517 : Died April 18, 1587. G.]

Rare Fox (well furr'd with patience) liv'd a life
 In's youthfull age devoted unto strife ;
 For the blind Papists of those frantick times
 Esteem'd his virtues as his greatest crimes.
 The hot persuit of their ful crying hounds
 Forced him to flye beyond the lawlesse bounds :
 Of their hot-sented malice : though their skill
 Was great in hunting, yet our Fox was still Too crafty for them : though they ranged about
 From place to place, they could not finde him out :
 And when they saw their plots could not prevaile
 To bless their noses with his whisking taile,
 They howl'd out curses, but could not obtain ;

Their prey being fled, their curses proved in vaine :
 From whence I think this proverb came at first,— ‘ Most thrives the Fox that most of all is curst.’

[Page 383.]

6. FR. JUNIUS [French Protestant: Born
 1545: Died Oct. 13, 1602. G.]

Reader, observe, and thou shalt finde
 A rare and well-reformèd minde :
 He that in his youthfull dayes
 Scorch'd his conscience by the blaze
 Of wanton fires, refused at last
 The heat of an atheisticke blast ;
 He started from the deep abyss
 Of vilenesse to the height of bliss ;
 And then that light which fil'd his breast
 Gave himselfe and others rest ;
 That they which did before contemme
 His deeds, imbraced him as a jem ;
 And thought him fitting to be set
 Within the Church's cabonet,
 His vertue pay'd what vice had scoared
 And age abhor'd what youth adored.

[Page 450.]

7. WILLIAM PERKINS [Divine: Born 1558 :
Died 1602. G.]

Of all the worthies in this learned role,
Our English Perkins may, without controle,
Challenge a crowne of bayes to deck his head
And second unto none be numberèd,
For's learning, wit and worthy parts divine,
Wherein his fame resplendently did shine
Abroad and eke at home, for's preaching rare
And learned writings almost past compare ;
Which were so high esteem'd, that some of them
Translated were (as a most precious jem)
Into the Latine, French, Dutch, Spanish tongue,
And rarely valued both of old and young.
And (which was very rare) them all did write
With his left hand, his right being useless quite :
Borne in the first, dying in the last, year
Of Queen Eliza, a princesse without peer.

[Page 440.]

XIV. From 'Mixt Contemplations on These Times' and 'Personal Meditations:' in all the collected editions of 'Good Thoughts,' etc.

1. All for the present : 'Oh ! give me that good man's gracious temper who earnestly desired the prosperity of the Church, whatsoever became of himself, whose verses I will offer to translate.'

Buried in earth or drown'd in th' main

Eat up by worms or fishes :

I pray the pious may obtain

For happy times, their wishes.

[M. C. XXII.]

2. Niniveh : 'But what is now become of Niniveh? It is even buried in its own ruins and may have this epitaph upon it :'

Hic jacet finis infiniti

Here lieth the end of what was endless.

[Ibid. XXIX.]

3. Good augury : 'I was much affected with reading that distick in Ovid, as having somewhat extraordinary therein :'

Tarpeia quondam predixit ab ilice cornix

Est, bene non potuit dicere, dixit, erit.

The crow sometimes did sit and spell <sup>1</sup>

On top of Tarpie-hall ;

She could not say all's well, all's well

But said it shall, it shall

‘But what do I listen to the language of the crow, whose black colours hath a cast of hell therein, in superstitious soothsaying. Let us hearken to what the dove of the Holy Spirit saith.’

[M. C. XXXV.]

4. Ovid's line :

Father an me pity take

Verses I no more will make. (P. M. XI.)

XIV. From the ‘Worthies.’<sup>1</sup>

1. Scarlet-habit of Cardinals : ‘whereof Theodore Beza tartly enough thus expresseth himself:’

My clothes in purple liquor ne’er were stew’d,

Nor garments (trust me) richly dy’d in grain.

Those robes you see so red, I have imbrew’d

In gore of guiltless saints, whom I have slain.

Or, mindful of the faults they hide, with shame

The bashful clothes do blush their wearer’s blame.

[C. IV. page 15.]

2. Lord Chancellors : ‘I find another notation of this office, some deducing his name a cancellando from cancelling things amisse, and rectifying them by the rules of equity and a good conscience : and this relateth to no meaner author then Johannes Sarisburiensis.’

’Tis he, who cancelleth all cruel lawes,
 And in kings’ mandates equity doth cause.
 If aught to Land or laws, doth hurtful prove,
 The care that hurt doth speedily remove:
 [C. VI. page 16 mispaged.]

3. Needless books : ‘Solomon was sensible of this vanity, even in his time, when pronouncing “of books there is no end.” The heathen poet took notice thereof, Scribimus indocti doctique Pœmata passim :’

Poems write a main we do
 Learnèd and unlearnèd too.
 [C. X. page 29.]

4. Modern pamphleteers : ‘Here I expect that the judicious reader will excuse me, if I take no notice of many modern pamphleteers : seeing unlearned scribblers are not ranked with learned writers ; yea it was, though tartly, truly said, to the author of such a book :’

Whilst others flow with faults, but one is past
 In all thy book : ’tis fault from first to last.

‘Indeed the Press, at first a virgin, then a chaste wife, is since turned common, as to prostitute herself to all scurrilous pamphlets.’

[C. X. pages 29, 30.]

5.† Henry Keble, Lord Mayor of London, 1511 : ‘who besides other benefactions in his lifetime, re-built Alder-Mary-Church run to very ruines, and bequeathed at his death a thousand pounds for the finishing thereof. Yet within sixty years after, his bones were unkindly yea inhumanely, cast out of the vaulte wherein they were buried, his monument plucked down for some wealthy person of the present times, to be buried therein. I could not but on this occasion rub up my old poetry :’

Facit Indignatio Versus.

The Author to Alder-Mary Church.

‘Ungrateful Church, orerun with rust
Lately buried in the dust ;
Utterly thou hadst been lost,
If not preserv’d by Keble’s cost :
A thousand pounds, might it not buy
Six foot in length for him to lie ?
But, ousted of his quiet tombe,
For later corps he must make roome :

Tell me where his dust is cast
 Though't be late, yet now at last ;
 All his bones with scorne ejected,
 I will see them re-collected :
 Who faine myself would kinsman prove
 To all that did God's temples love.

Alder-Mary Church's Answer.

' Alas ? my innocence excuse :
 My Wardens they did me abuse.
 Whose avarice his ashes sold
 That goodness might give place to gold ;
 As for his reliques, all the town
 They are scatterèd up and down ;
 Seest a Church repairèd well ?
 There a sprinkling of them fell :
 See'st a new Church lately built ?
 Thicker there his ashes spilt :
 O that all the Land throughout
 Keble's dust were throume about ;
 Places scatterèd with that seed
 Would a crop of Churches breed.'

[C. XI. page 33.]

6. Exhortation to deeds of charity: 'The best-disposed to bounty may need a remembrancer: and I am sure that nightingale which would wake, will not be angry with the thorn which pricketh her breast when she noddeth. Besides it is a truth what the poet saith,

Who, what thou dost, thee for to do doth move
Doth praise thy practice and thy deeds approve.

[C. XI. page 39.]

7. Altering of surnames: ‘Hence it is that the same name hath been so often disguised unto the staggering of many, who have mistook them for different: Idem non idem, queruntque in nomine nomen.’

The same they thought was not the same ;
And in their name they sought their name.

‘Thus I am informed that the honourable name of Villiers is written in fourteen several ways, in their own evidence.’ [C. XVII. page 51.]
[Shakespeare, Raleigh, Sibbes, Airay, afford like examples. G.]

8. Associates of a man's life:

We by their company do own
Men by themselves to us unknown.

The Latin is

Noscitur è socio qui non noscetur ab ipso.

[C. XX. page 55.]

9. Descents: 'If enquiry be made into all men's descents, it would be found true what the poet doth shewe:'

The first of all thine ancestors of yore
Was but a shepheard, or——I say no more.

[C. XXV. page 74.]

10. 'Haste makes waste.' — Objection to the Worthies 'prevented' [= 'anticipated.' G.] 'You have huddled your book too soon to the presse, for a subject of such a nature. You should have sent to the gentry of several counties, to have furnished you with memorables out of their own pedegrees and should have taken a longer time to compose them.'

'Eight years digest what you have rudely hinted,
And in the ninth year let the same be printed!'

Answer. 'That ninth year might happen eight years after my death, being sensible of the impression of age upon me; and a stranger to my method would hardly rally my scattered posthumed notes.' [C. XXV. page 74.] [The 'Worthies' did prove to be 'posthume' and the son brought it out with little of the skill or care of the father as the many blundering folio, shews. G.]

11. Episcopacy and Presbytery: Objection: 'In your Protestant writers you promiscuously mingle some very zealous for Episcopacy, others as active for Presbytery.' . . . Answer: 'I had rather privately bemoan than publickly proclaim the difference betwixt them when alive: charitably believing that being dead

Now they are agreèd well
 And in bliss together dwell.'
 [C. XXV. page 74.]

12. Living persons: Objection: 'You have omitted many memorable persons still surviving, as meriting as any you have inserted. Answer: The return of Martial in a case not much unlike may much befriend me herein:'

Deccasèd authors thou admir'st alone
 And only praisest poets dead and gone.
 Vacerra, pardon me: I will not buy
 Thy praise so dear as for the same to dye.

'All men being like-minded with Martial herein, none surviving will distaste their omission in a work, for reasons afore alledged (save in some cases) confined to the memories of the departed.'

[C. XXV. page 76.]

13. Numerousness of 'writers:' Omissions are apologized for 'for their numerousnesse and therefore I may make use of the Latine distick wherewith John Pitseus closeth his book of English writers.'

More volums to our volums must we bind ;
And when that's done, a bound we cannot find.

[C. XXVI. page 79.]

14. Birth-place :

A thankful man will feed
The place which did him breed.

[C. XXVI. page 80.]

15. English 'ape' the French :

—— It is to us a pain

This should be said and not gain-said again.

[Berkshire : Proverbs.]

16. † Royal Children : 'As for the other children of . . . . Eleanor . . . . viz. Henry, Alphonse, Blanche, dying in their infaney immediately after their baptism, it is enough to name them and to bestow this joynt epitaph upon them.'

Cleansèd at font we drew untainted breath
Not yet made bad by life, made good by death

[Ibid.]

17. Sir John Mason :

He saw five princes which the scepter bore
Of them was privy-councillor to four. [Ibid.]

18. Ancient gentry :

Of names which were in days of yore
Few remain here of a great store. [Ibid.]

19.† Richard Cox and Prince Edward: ‘He was sent for to be instructor to Prince Edward, which, with good conscience, to his great credit, he discharged. Here reader forgive me in hazarding thy censure, in making and translating a distick upon them.’

Præceptor doctus, docilis magis an puer ille ?
Ille puer docilis, præceptor tu quoque doctus.
Master more able, child of more docility ?
Docile the child, master of great ability.

[Buckinghamshire.]

20. Dame Hester Temple : ‘I confess very many of her descendants dyed before her death : in which respect she was far surpassed by a Roman matron, on whom the poet thus epitapheth it, in her own person :’

Twenty nine births Callicrate I told
 And of both sexes saw none sent to grave?
 I was an hundred and five winters old,
 Yet stay from staff my hand did never crave.

[Buckinghamshire.]

21. Baskets: 'Martial confesseth baskets to have been a British invention, though Rome afterwards laid claim thereunto.'

I, foreign basket, first in Brittain known
 And now by Rome accounted for her own.

[Cambridgeshire.]

22. Matthew Paris:

Matthew, here cease thy pen in peace, and study on no more
 Nor do thou rome at things to come, what next age hath in store. [Ibid.]

23. Simon Steward's 'coat of arms':

French Charls would have these Coats to be thus
 worn ;
 When singly good, their better jointly born.
 [Ibid.]

24. Beestone Castle: 'pictures' of—

When real walls are vanish'd quite Painted ones doe us delight.

‘Learned Leland is very confident that this castle shall see better times, deriving his intelligence from ancient predictions :’

Beestone in time its head aloft shall heave
If I, a prophet, prophets may believe.

[Cambridgeshire.]

25.† Daniel King : ‘on whom we will bestow this distick’

Cheshire to King and King to Cheshire owes
His light : each doth receive what each bestows.

‘What is amiss in my poetry, shall be amended in my prayers for a blessing on his and all ingenious men’s undertakings.’ [The Latin is]

Kingus Cestrensi, Censtrensis Patria Kingo
Lucem alternatim debet uterque suam.

[Cheshire.]

26. Dreams : [Virgil : Aeneid vi. 893]

Dreames have two gates : one made [they say] of horn ;

By this port pass, true and prophetic dreames :
White ivory the other doth adorne ;

By this false shades and lying fancies streames.

[Cornwall.]

27. Tongilian: 'I cannot take my leave of these tinnors, untill I have observ'd a strange practice of them, that once in seven or eight years they burn down (and that to their great profit) their own melting houses.'

'I remember a merry epigram in Martial on one Tongilian who had his house in Rome causually (reputed) burnt, and gained ten times as much, by his friends' contribution to his loss:'

Gaining tenfold, tell truly, I desire

Tongilian, did'st not set thy house on fire.

[Cornish.]

[See the explanation in the sequel of the text. G.]

28. Cornish: 'They ever have been be-held men of valour. It seemeth in the reign of the aforesaid king Arthur they ever made up his van-guard, if I can rightly understand the barbarous verses of a Cornish poet:'

Brave Arthur, when he meant a field to fight

Us Cornish men did first of all invite:

Only to Cornish (count them Caesar's swords)

He the first blow in battle still affords. [Ibid.]

29. Michael Blaunpynn: 'It happened one Henry of Normandy, chief poet to our Henry the Third, had traduced Cornwall, as an inconsiderable country, cast out by nature in contempt into a corner of the Land. Our Michael could not endure this affront: but full of poetical fury, falls upon the libeller. Take a taste (little thereof will go far) of his strains:’

We need not number up her wealthy store
Wherewith this helpful land relieves her poor,
No sea so full of fish, of tinn no shore.

‘Then as a valiant champion, he concludeth all with this exhortation to his countrymen:’

What should us fright if firmly we do stand?
Bar fraud, then no force can us command.

‘His pen so lushious in praising when so pleased, was as bitter in railing when disposed: witness this his satirical character of his aforesaid antagonist:’

Gamb’d like a goat, sparrow-thigh’d, sides as boar, Hare-mouth’d, dog-nos’d, like mule thy teeth and chin:

Brow’d as old wife, bul-headed, black as more.

If such without, then what are you within?
By these my signs the wise will easily conster
How little thou didst differ from a monster.

[Cornish.]

30. Richard Carew and Sir Philip Sidney in 'dispute extempore' at College:

Ask you the end of this contest?
 They neither had the better ; both the best.
 [Cornish.]

31. Sympathy :

When thy neighbour's house doth burn
 Take heed the next be not thy turn.
 [Cumberland.]

32. John Salkeld 'presented to king James : by whose arguments (and a benefice bestowed on him in Somersetshire) he became a Protestant. This he used in all companies to boast of "that he was a royall convert." Nobisque dedit solatia victor.'

And was it not a noble thing
 Thus to be conquer'd by a king. [Ibid.]

[Not to be confounded with good John Salkeld 'ejected' in 1662 from Worlington, Suffolk. See Calamy s. n. G.]

33. Chatsworth : [from Hobbes' De Mirabilibus Pecci].

Chatsworth, which in its bulk itself doth pride
 And lord (both great) stands Derwens bank beside ;

Which slides still by the gate, as full of wonder Through loud with stones above the house and under. [Derbyshire.]

34. ‘Buxton Well: [Ibid.]

Old men’s numb’d joynts new vigor here acquire ;
 In frozen nerves this water kindleth fire.
 Hither the creples halt, some help to find,
 Run hence, their crutches unthank’t† left behind.
 The barren wife here meets her husband’s love
 With such success she strait doth mother prove.
 [Ibid.]

† ‘The Translator durst not be so bold as the author.’

35. Battle of Alcazer :

A fatal fight, where in one day was slain
 Three kings that were and one that would be fain.
 [Ibid.]

36 Sir Francis Drake : ‘This tetrastic made on his corpse when cast out of the ship, wherein he died, into the sea :’

Though Rome’s religion should in time return
 Drake, none thy body will ungrave again :

There is no fear posterity should burn

Those bones, which free from fire in sea remain.

[Devonshire.]

37. Samuel Word: 'Now because the pen of a pupil may probably be suspected of partiality, of an historian I will turn a translator and only endeavour to English that character which one [Dr Thomas Goad] who knew him as well as most men and could judge of him as well as any man doth bestow upon him.'

Go to, go on, deck (as thou doest) the chaire
With subtilty not light, slight, vage as air ;
But such as Truth doth crown, and standing sure
Solidly fix'd will weighing well endure.

Antiquities' hid depths thou oft doest sound,
And School-men's whirl-pools which are so profound.

Distinction's threads none can so finely weave ;
Or reason wrench, thy knowledge to deceive ;
None thy quick sight, grave judgement, can beguile
So skill'd in tongues, so sinewy in style :
Add to all these that peaceful soul of thine
Meek, modest, which all brawlings doth decline.

[Durham.]

38. Sir Henry Killigrew : ‘ Now Katherine, his lady wrote these following verses to her sister Mildred Cecil, to improve her power with the Lord Treasurer her husband, that Sir Henry might be excused from that service [of ambassador to France]. We will endeavour to translate them, though I am afraid falling much short of their native elegance :’

If Mildred, by thy care, he be sent back whom I request,

A sister good thou art to me, yea better, yea, the best.

But if with stays thou keep’st him still or send’st where seas may part,

Then unto me a sister ill, yea worse, yea none
thou art.

If go to Cornwall he shall please, I peace to thee foretell ;

But Cecil, if he set to seas, I war denounce.
Farewell. [Essex.]

39. † Thomas Barington and ‘ Spouse’—‘ See here a sympathizing wife, dying the next day after her husband, of whom it may be said’

He first deceased : she for few hours try’d
To live without him, lik’d it not, and dy’d.

[Ibid.]

40. Higre and Adria [= Adriatic G.]—After quoting Drayton's description of the Higre, Fuller adds 'Had this been known to the Roman poet [Horace] when he thus envied against his shee-friend'

Thou art more light, more angry than
The cork, and uncouth Adrian.

'I say, had it been known, he would have changed Adria into Higrea, the former being a very calme in comparison of the latter.'—[Gloucestershire.] [I doubt good Fuller if thou speakest here from experience if I may judge from what the Adriatic has proved to me in sailing it over and over. G.]

41. Thomas de la More:

A man whose fame extended far
For arts in peace and feats in war.

[Gloucestershire.]

42. Charles Butler: author of a 'Book of Bees:'

Butler, he'l say (who these thy writing sees)
'Bees counsel thee or else thou counsel'st bees.
[Hampshire.]

43. William, second son of King Edward the Third: 'What I find written on the late monument of a noble infant may also serve for his epitaph.'

Living I could not speak, now dead I tel
Thy duty: think of death: and so farewell.

[Hertfordshire.]

44. Alexander Nequam or Bad in English: 'Many conceived themselves wondrous witty in making jests (which indeed made themselves) on his surname.' . . . . 'Whereupon Nequam (to discompose such conceits for the future) altered the orthography of his name into Neckam. Another pass of wit there was . . . . betwixt him and Philip Repington, bishop of Lincoln, the latter sending the challenge.'

Et niger et nequam, cum sis cognomine Nequam; Nigrrior esse potes, nequior esse nequis.

Both black and bad, whilst Bad tie name to thee
Blacker thou may'st but worse thou can'st not be.

To whom Nequam rejoined:

Phi nota fætoris, lippus malus omnibus horis:
Phi malus et lippus, totus malus ergo Philippus.

Stinks are branded with a Phi; lippus Latin for blear-eye :

Phi and lippus bad <sup>i</sup>as either ; then Philippus worse together.

This [is his] epitaph :

Wisdom's eclips'd, sky of the sun bereft
Yet less the loss if like alive were left.
A man discreet, in manners debonair Bad name, black face, but carriage good and fair. [Ibid.]

45.† William of Ware : 'He was instructor to John Duns Scotus.'

And if the scholar to such height did reach
Then what was he who did this scholar teach ?
[Ibid.]

46. Wye-salmon :

Salmon in Summer is not rare
In Winter I of them do share.

for the river Wye affords brumal salmon, fat and sound, when they are sick and spent in other places.' [Herefordshire]

47. Adam de Easton : 'Pity it is so good a scholar should have so barbarous an epitaph, scarce worth our translation.'

Adam a famous father in arts all
 He was a deep divine, Cardi-and-nall,
 Whom England bred, St Cicelie hath given
 His title—death at last gave heaven.

[Herefordshire.]

48. William Sempster :

Well I know these works he wrot
 But for the time I know it not. [Ibid.]

49. Humphry Ely :

Wonder not, reader, that with heresies
 England is clouded : here her Sun he lies
 [Ibid.]

50. Rosamund : ‘buried in a little nunnery at Godstowe nigh Oxford, with this epitaph.’

This tomb doth inclose, the world’s fair rose, so sweet and full of savour
 And smell she doth now, but you may guess how, none of the sweetest savour. [Ibid.]
 [See sequel in context. G.]

51. Sir Robert Cotton :

Camden to him, to him doth Selden, owe
 Their glory : what they got from him did grow.
 [Huntingdonshire.]

52. Interpretation of a proverb :

If thou know'st better, it to me impart
 If not, use these of mine with all my heart.

[Kent.]

53. Germans :

'Mongst the old Teuch, lest one oretop his breed
 To his sire's land doth every son succeed. [Ibid.]

54.† Edmund, youngest son to Henry the Seventh 'died before he was full five years of age.'
 . . . 'Little notice generally is taken of this prince : and no wonder, for'

Who only act short parts in infant age
 Are soon forgot they ere came on the stage.

[Ibid.]55. Sir James Hales :

Seeing nought thou seest but faling in the best,
 Mind thy own matters and leave God the rest.

[Ibid.]

56. Richard Fletcher : 'Queen Elizabeth knew full well'

The jewel vertue is more grac'd

When in a proper person cas'd. [Ibid.]

57. Sir Thomas Wyat :

Let Florence fair her Dante's justly boast
 And royal Rome her Petrarch's numbered feet :
 In English Wiat both of them doth coast
 In whom all graceful eloquence doth meet.
[Kent.]

58. New Kings :

Subjects commonly do finde
 New-made sovereigns most kinde.
[Lancashire.]

59. Wills : 'Richard Bancroft cancelled his first will.' . . .

He who never repented of doing ill
 Repented that once he made a good Will.
[Ibid.]

60. Worth :

Nor will worth
 Long be confin'd but make its own way forth.
[Ibid.]

61. Fleet-hounds : 'Such a petronius or fleet hound, is two hounds in effect.

To the petronian, both the praise is due
 Quickly to find and nimbly to pursue.
[Lincolnshire.]

62. Grey-hounds : ‘ Martial speaking of these greyhounds, thus expresseth himself :’

For’s master, not himself, doth greyhound toil
Whose teeth to thee return the unhurt spoyl.’

[Lincolnshire.]

63. Mastiffs :

The British whelps no blemish know
But that they are not whelp’d for show.

[Ibid.]

64. Lost ‘ commons :’ ‘ Long since Virgil said the same in effect of the men of Mantua, when they lost their lands to the souldiers of Augustus.’

See townsmen, what we by our jars are grown ;
And see for whom we have our tillage sown.

[Ibid.]

65. Ayscough, bishop of Sarum : murdered by Jack Cade :—

By people’s fury mitre thus cast down
We pray henceforward, God preserve the crown.

[Ibid.]

66. Thomas Goodrich : ‘ It will [not] be amisse to insert and translate this distick made upon him :’

Both good and rich, well joyned, best rank'd indeed :
For grace goes first and next doth wealth succeed.
[Lincolnshire.]

67. Hampton Court : [It] 'hath happiness to continue in its former estate.'

I envy not its happy lot, but rather thereat wonder ;
There's such a rout, our Land throughout, of pallaces by plunder. [Middlesex.]

68. Fulke de Brent and his 'wife :'

Now both of them be'ng brought into a bed
By law and love and concord joynèd are ;
What law ? what love ? what concord did them
wed ?
Law lawless, loath'd love, concord which did jarr. [Ibid.]

69. † Katherine, 3d daughter of King Henry the IIIrd : 'She died in her very infancy, on whom we will presume to bestow this epitaph :'

Wak't from the wombe, she on this world did peep
Dislikt it, clos'd her eyes, fell fast asleep.
[London.]

70.† Wives of Henry VIII : ‘ Such as desire to know the names, number and successe of all six, may conceive King Henry thus speaking on his death-bed :’

Three Kates, two Nans, and one dear Jane I wedded ;

One Spanish, one Dutch, and four English wives :

From two I was divorce’d, two I beheaded,

One died in child-bed, and one me survives.

[London.]

71. William Cotton, D.D. : ‘ epitaph.’

When th’ queen from Paul to Peter did remove,

Him God with Paul and Peter plac’d above.

[Ibid.]

72. Spenser : ‘ epitaph :’

Whilst thou did’st live, liv’d English poetry

Which fears, now thou art dead, that she shall die.

[Ibid.]

73. London :

Potent in piety, in her people proud.

[Ibid.]

74. Charles II.: 'a tetastric by Master Booth.'

Prince Charles, forgive me, that my silent quill

Joy'd not thy birth ; alas ! sore sick was I.
New hopes now come ; had I been silent still
I should deserve both to be sick and die.

[Westminster.]

75. Bishop Aylmer :

Eighteen years bishop and once banish'd
hence

And twice a champion in the truth's defence.

[Norfolk.]

76. 'An end' : 'Virgil, I remember put a period to his Eclogue with'

'We'll versifie no more
For do but hark, Hylax doth bark at th' entrance of the dore.'

[Ibid.]

77. William Lilly : 'This I will do for William Lilly (though often beaten for his sake) endeavour to translate his answer [to Skelton. G.]

With face so bold and teeth so sharp
 Of viper's venome, why dost carp?
 Why are my verses by thee weigh'd
 In a false scale? May truth be said?
 Whilst thou, to get the more esteem
 A learnèd poet fain wouldst seem:
 Skelton, thou art, let all men know it,
 Neither learned nor a poet. [Norfolk].

78. Sir Robert Dallington: 'He was knighted and preferred master of the Charter-house, where the schoolmaster at his first entering, welcomed him with a speech in Latine verse, spoken by a schoolboy; but sure he was more then a boy who indited it.' . . . 'the last distick therein'—

Do not the least part of your trust disdain
 Nor grudge of boys to take the care again.
 [Northamptonshire.]

79. John Fletcher: 'It could [not] be laid to Fletcher's charge, what Ajax doth to Ulysses' [Ovid: Met. lib. 13].

When Diomedè was gone
 He could do nought alone.

For surviving his partner [Beaumont] he wrote good comedies himself.' [Ibid.]

80. Peter Pateshull: would have been burned save for his flight. 'This mindeth me of a passage of a frier who burned a book of Peter Ramus, after the death of the author thereof; and then and there used this distick in some imitation of Ovid.

Small book, thy fate I envy not,
 (Without me) feel the flame;
 Oh had it been thy master's lot
 He might have felt the same. [Ibid.]

81. Laxton:

At Oundle born, what he did get
 In London with great pain,
 Laxton to young and old hath set
 A comfort to remain. [Ibid.]

82. Friars:

Hear, why that they so much in England
 thriv'd:

When th' English earst in Palestine arriv'd,
 The city Acon on the shore of Tyre
 As next at hand, with arms did soon acquire

The captives, seeing so great wonders wrought,
 There friers with them into England brought:
 What was denied at home, they here anew

Churches and houses built. In years but few Increasing twig-like set by happy band
 Or tree transplanted to a fruitful land.

[Northumberland.]

83. Thomas Magnus: 'He was an exposed child'—'What the poet saith of the father of Cadmus (commanding his son to find his lost sister Europa or else never to return) that he was

Expressing in one act a mind
 Which was both cruel and was kind

'Now it happened that some Yorkshire clothiers coming in the dark (very early or late) did light on this child, and resolved to pay both for his nursing and education, the charge whereof would not be great, equally divided betwixt them, according to the proverb Multorum manibus grande levatur onus.'

An heavy work is light to do
 When many hands are put thereto.

[Nottinghamshire.]

84. Venison

Old wine did their thirst allay, fat venison hunger. [Oxfordshire.]

85. Quarrels :

Mark the Chronicles aright
 When Oxford scholars fall to fight,
 Before many months expir'd
 England will with war be fir'd. [Oxfordshire].

86. † ‘ Wife of Peter Martyr : ‘ It happened in the first of queen Elizabeth that the scholars of Oxford took up the body of the wife of Peter Martyr, who formerly had been disgracefully buried in a dunghill, and interred it in the tomb with the dust of St Frideswide. Sanders addeth, that they wrote this inscription (which he calleth impium epitaphium) : Hic requiescit Religio cum Superstitione : though the words being capable of a favourable sense on his side, he need not have been so angry. However we will rub up our old poetry and bestow another upon them.’

In tumulo fuerat Petri quæ Martyris uxor,
 Hic cum Frideswidâ virgine jure jacet
 Virginis intactæ nihilum cum cedat honori,
 Conjugis in thalamo non temerata fides.
 Si sacer Angligeniss cultus mutetur (at absit !)
 Ossa suum servent mutua tuta locum.
 Intomb'd with Frideswide, deem'd a sainted maid
 The wife of Peter Martyr here is laid :

And reason good, for women chaste in mind
 The best of virgins come no whit behind.
 Should Popery return (which God forefend !)
 Their blended dust each other would defend.

[Oxfordshire.]

87. War :

Mars, Mars, bane of men, slaughter-stain'd spoiler of houses. [Rutlandshire.]

88. Sword :

Sword which god Vulcan did for Daunus fixe
 And quenched it when firy hot in Stix.

[Shropshire.]

89. Ralph of Shrewsbury : builder of a house for the ' vicars-choral ' of his cathedral : which in an old picture is thus presented :

The Vicars' humble petition on their knees.
 To us dispers'd i th' streets good father give
 A place where we together all may live.
 The gracious answer of the Bishop, sitting.

Yourmeritscrave that what you crave be yielded ;
 That so ye may remain, this place we've builded.

[Ibid.]

90. † William Adams : a great Benefactor. ' But who for the present can hold from praising so pious a performance ?'

Come, Momus, who delight do'st take
 Where none are found, there faults to make :
 And count'st that cost and care and pain
 Not spent on thee, all spent in vain.
 See this bright structure, till that smart
 Blind thy blear-eyes and grieve thy heart.
 Some cottage-schools are built so low
 The Muses there must groveling go.
 Here, whilst Apollo's harp doth sound,
 The sisters nine may dance around ;
 And architects may take from hence
 The pattern of magnificence.
 Then grieve not, Adams, in thy mind,
 'Cause you have left no child behind :
 Unbred ! unborn, is better rather,
 If so, you are a second father
 To all bred in this school so fair
 And each of them thy son and heir. [Shropshire.]

HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED EPIGRAMS.

NOTE.

As stated in our Introduction, Mr W. Carew Hazlitt sent a communication to Notes and Queries (3d Series, VII. pp. 352, 353) concerning a volume then in his possession, which contained contemporary MS. insertions. The 'Note' is as follows:—'In a copy of Crashaw's Steps to the Temple, with the Delights of the Muses, second edition 1648 8vo [it is a small 12°. G.] which fell in my way about three years ago, I discovered written upon the blank leaves,—as a portion of the copy was printed on one side only,—a large quantity of curious Manuscript matter, consisting partly of excerpta from printed works, but partly of original and inedited compositions. Among these, are upwards of fifty epigrams, chiefly upon religious subjects, by "Mr Thomas Fuller," and I forward herewith some account of the collection, which, as I have little or no doubt that "Mr Thomas Fuller" is identical with the Church-historian, cannot fail to be of interest to some of your readers.' [Here follows a selection of the headings of 42 of the Epigrams, and Mr Hazlitt adds, 'with about a dozen more:' which is within the mark. G.] 'In a different hand from the above are other epigrams, among which are several of an amatory cast. At the close of the volume occurs, with considerable appearance of having been written by the same person who has composed or transcribed the other pieces, the autograph of Dudley Lovelace, who has written his name a second time with an eye to a little jeu de mots, thus: Dudley Lovelasse, and this gentleman has apparently (for they are in the same hand or a very similar one) copied out portions of his brother's Lucasta upon some of the spare leaves, with here and there a variation from the printed edition. On the recto of p. 96 there are four verses from Lucasta with the signature of Richard Lovelace. The true history of the little book before me, might be curious and interesting, if it could be ascertained. There is surely ground for presuming that it has once been possessed by Dudley Posthumous Lovelace, the youngest brother of the ill-fated Cavalier Poet, Richard Lovelace, if not of the latter himself. I referred to the curiosity of the present copy of Crashaw in a note at p. 42, of my edition of the Poems of Richard Lovelace, 1864. 'W. Carew Hazlitt.'

In examining the volume I find on back of the engraved title-page and continued through other two pages, certain memoranda headed 'An Asylum for extremity,' and closed thus on reverse of 'the Table' (= Contents)

'finis of ye Asylum for Laborious }

love } extremity T. J. S.'

This portion is partly in short-hand characters, and differs, I think, from the Epigram hand-writing. Who was T. J. S.—if I correctly read the initials? Lovelace himself has a poem to Lady A[nne] L[ovelace] 'My asylum in a great extremity,' of which, above words seem an echo. Again: on the blanks from p. 75 to p. 77, there are 18 numbered 'Epigrams' which would seem to belong to Crashaw, though not assigned to him. Fuller's 'Epigrams' fill the blanks from p. 78 to 84. I adhere with literal fidelity to the manuscript—placing in brackets my filling up of less plain contractions—and I have to acknowledge the admirable help and rare insight of W. Aldis Wright, Esq., M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, in deciphering the somewhat intricate and difficult hand-writing and meaning. The figures 1, 2, etc., point to a few slight explanatory Notes appended. Under Epigrams 10, 40, 53 are references to 'Pisgah-Sight' which confirm their Fullerian authority. These might be multiplied. But specially note Epigram 33: and as bearing the true mint-mark Nos. 2, 4, 6, 7, 10, 12, 13, 18, 19, 21, 22, 24, 27, 31, 34, 35, 40, 42, 43, 44, 45, 47, 54, 55, 58, 59. G.

13. On Zacheus (14).

Hee climb'd A fig-tree : this I dare ad more (15)
 No barren fig-tree then : good frute it bore

14. On y<sup>e</sup> Powder plot (16).

The plot was onely in Intention wrought
 Y<sup>e</sup> plotters were to execution brought.

15. On Vaine Excuses.

When men do sin themselves they blame y<sup>e</sup> diuel

16. On Gallants cloakes.

Without plaine cloath, within plush : but I doubt
 Y<sup>e</sup> wearer's worst within & best without.

17. On Popish Interpretation of Scripture.

Christ : Drinke al of this at y<sup>e</sup> comunion table
 Pope : By al, y<sup>e</sup> clergy, their are only meant Paul : Mariage Amongst al men 's honorable
 Pope : All, there's y<sup>e</sup> Laity y<sup>ts</sup> paul's intent.
 Christ : Is't so indeed : w<sup>t</sup> X[t], saith or St Paul

18. On Sin.

We paint y<sup>e</sup> diuel blacke : us to requite
 The blackamore's do paint y<sup>e</sup> diuel white :

Thus juglers count spendinge y<sup>e</sup> only (17) vice

And spenders make it to be avarice
And every man whereof himselfe is free

19. Whether Scripture or tradition [is] y<sup>e</sup> mother of faith.

Scr. Y<sup>e</sup> child is mine, of certaine S<sup>r</sup>. I bare it

Trad: S<sup>r</sup>., it's mine & I must therefore share it:

Solomon: Y<sup>t</sup> then this matter better be decided Bringe forth a sword & let it be divided (18).

Trad: O wel s<sup>d</sup> S<sup>r</sup>. y<sup>e</sup> Judgm<sup>t</sup> is wel spent
Let it be hers & mine Indifferent.

Scrip: O no not so, alive for pity save it Let me have't al or let her wholly have it.

Solomon: O now I see this woman is y<sup>e</sup> mother
Give her y<sup>e</sup> child and pack away y<sup>e</sup>

54. On Isaace (51).

 A willinge minde of God is not despis'd
 Isaacke was offer'd but not sacryfic'd.

55. On Sampson's weapons (52).

The silliest creature we do count y<sup>e</sup> Asse
 With Asse's Jawes Sampson his foes doth quaile
 & flaps he gave them w[ith] a foxes taile.

56. On Japthaes daughter (53).

He kil'd her not say some but only stay'd
 Her fro[m] ill marryinge : oh y<sup>t</sup>. kills a maide.

57. On Ely y<sup>e</sup> priest (54).

The newes of th' Ark's captivity once spoken
 His hart was broke before his necke was broken
 No wonder Ely was so tender harted
 Y<sup>e</sup> priest must needs dy w[he]n y<sup>e</sup> Ark's dep'[ar]ted.

58. On Sampson &amp; John Baptist (55).

Much do I muse w[he]n I on Sampson thinke
 So stronge, whose mother tasted no stronge drink
 But yet John Baptist is A wonder rather
 A cryer's voice, begot of A dumb father.

59. On Christ Lookinge on Peter (56).

Tho Peter w[it]h his tongue did Christ deny
 Yet Christ, he ownèd Peter with his eye :
 Peter who was with night of feares ore-drawn
 But w[he]n y<sup>e</sup> Cocke did crowe y<sup>e</sup> day did dawn.

APPENDIX.

FULLER'S FORM OF PRAYER.

AS stated in our Introduction there follows here the 'Form' which our Worthy was wont to use in his extra-Prayer-Book 'devotions.'

Concerning it, the rare anonymous 'Life' (1662) observes, 'A constant form of prayer he used as in his family so in his publique ministry; onely varying or adding upon speciall occasions or occurences intervening required, because not only hesitation (which the good Doctor for all his strength of memory and invention, was afraid of before so awful a presence as the majesty of heaven) was in prayer more offensive than other discourse; but because such excursions in that duty, in the extempore way, was become the idol of the multitude' (p. 81). The 'Form' itself is preserved in the exceedingly scarce volume whose title-page I now give.

son at the Bible in Giltspurstreet, 1659.

The date is 1659 though Mr Russell [‘Memorials of Fuller’] gives it as 1658. The preface ‘To the judicious, and religious reader’ is signed ‘Tho. Reeve’—query author of that vivid and remarkable folio, ‘The Plea of Niniveh’ and various memorable Sermons.’

The volume is a very small 12mo. and Fuller’s Prayer occupies pp. 156–171. G.

MR T. F. HIS
EVENING PRAYER.

LET the Words of my mouth, and the thoughts of all our hearts be now and ever acceptable in thy sight, O Lord our strength and our Redeemer.

O Eternal Lord God, infinite in thy greatness, incomprehensible in thy glory, whose pure and just Eyes cannot behold either sin or sinners with the least look of approbation; be not offended with thy servants; it will be little comfort for us in these glorious attributes; we come to them that may tender most consolation to us: Oh Lord God, who in Christ Jesus art a mercifull and a reconciled Father to all such sinners as sincerely from their Souls desire and endeavour to repent and believe; thy providence hath brought us unto this place to offer unto thy Majesty our evening sacrifice of prayer and thanksgiving, and to be made partakers of a portion of thy most holy Word; truly Lord we have just cause to fear lest our prayers, instead of that blessing we now desire, draw down that curse which they deserve upon us ; we have inflamed the corruptions of our natures with the manifold rebellions of our lives, which have been nothing else but one constant breach of thy ten commandments ; true Lord, the law in our minds, our spirit, our new creature, our regenerate half, our light, clearly knows and cheerfully acknowledges all and every one of thy commandments for pure, and just, and holy ; but the law in our members, our darknesse, our flesh, our old Creature breaks them daily in thought, word, and deed ; we all of us have been foul and flat Idolaters, erecting the Idols of our own profit and pleasure in the Chapels and Closets of our hearts, and then and there have fallen down upon the bended knees of our Souls, and worshipt them, by regarding our lust more than the fulfilling of thy will in thy word ; that sacred name of thine whereby we hope to be saved, we have taken in vain ; we have done that on thy day, the Lord's day, which we can justifie or avouch on no day ; we have not given that reverence and respect to our Superiors placed over us which thou requirest at our hands ; we have broken all the commandments of the second Table in our demeanour towards our neighbours, and in our deportment to our own Souls and bodies ; and here Lord we are ashamed to confesse the manifold circumstances of our sins in the presence and hearing of man, who, vile, bold wretches were no whit ashamed or afraid to commit them when we knew full well that the high God of Heaven and Earth did at that instant behold us ; now lend us of thy Spirit effectually to admire at thy patience and longsuffering towards us, who permits such prophane and presumptuous sinners at this hour of our lives still to remain from Hell fire ; surely Lord there are many in that pit of perdition, whose sins against thee were never aggravated with those high circumstances ; O Lord, we have no variety of reasons to move thee to mercy, we have no exchange of motives to persuade thee to pitty, but only the same over and over again, for thy own sake, for thy names sake, for thy mercies sake, for thy Son and our Saviour Christ Jesus his sake forgive our sins, for they are great ; wash the guilt & filth of our sins away in his blood ; and Lord for the time to come give us grace to spend the remainder of our dayes in our several Callings to thy glory ; Lord grant that we may not only labour to have our sins pardoned to us, but also strive to have so much favour with thee, that before our deaths we may have our sins forgiveness assured ; for our comfort, grant Lord that we may betake our selves to do the one thing necessary ; let us not have our oyl to buy when we should have it to burn ; teach us O Lord that sicknesse is a time not to do but to suffer ; and gracious Lord grant that our work being done, and the books crost in the times of our healths, we may be comforted when we come to dye, and to resign our Souls into the hands of a faithfull Creator and gracious redeemer. Blesse us with thy whole Church scattered far and wide over the face of the whole Earth ; Lord, what particulars to pray for, we know not, we dare not, we humbly tender a blank into the hands of an almighty God ; write therein Lord what thou wilt, when thou wilt, where thou wilt, by whom thou wilt, only in thine own time work out thine own honour and glory ; in the mean time give us faith to believe it, patience to expect, diligence to observe, and zeal to pray fervently for it ; to this end blesse all those whom thine own self in lawfull authority hast placed over us, by what name or title soever known unto us ; blesse their counsels and consultations, and make them under thy self the happy instruments of the good of this Nation. Be present with us and President amongst us, at this time in the hearing and handling of thy holy Word ;

Lord let not the manifold corruptions and the more imperfections of thy servant hinder the operation of thy word, but give me to speak it plainly to every capacity, methodically to every member, effectually to every conscience that shall be here present, so that it may sink in all our hearts, and bring forth fruit in the amendment of our lives and conversations. This, and what else thy wisdom sees fitter for us than we can aske or desire, we beg at thy hands in the name and mediation of Jesus Christ. Our Father, etc.

Notice.

In preparation, a Postscript to the Poems, &c. of FULLER—consisting of certain minor Verses overlooked, and a number of elucidatory and illustrative Notes. Moreover as my eyes were dimmed with tears (by domestic loss and sorrow) while the volume (No. 6) was passing through the press, I had to trust proof-sheets to other eyes. Hence certain misprints, &c., which I wish to point out, for correction.
